ERRIBLE SUFFERING.

The Rough Experience of Four Yukon Prospectors.

TALE OF HORRIBLE PRIVATION

Sensational Story Related by R. C. Rose and J. W. Sperry.

DEATH OF TWO OF THE PARTY

Subsisting on Berries and Squirrels for [illegible] Days—Robbed by Hostile Indians—Civilization Reached at Last.

[illegible] arrival of the Alaskan steamer [illegible] Elder at Port Townsend, last [illegible] THE OREGONIAN correspondent at [illegible] telegraphed a brief account of the [illegible] sufferings of four Alaskan gold pros[illegible] which was published last Monday [illegible] Yesterday another account was [illegible] it being special correspondence [illegible] Alaska. Both of these ac[illegible] obtained under difficulties, the [illegible] of the correspondents being two [illegible] who were very ill, and in no condition to tell the story with its de[illegible] consequently, much if not nearly [illegible] story was omitted [illegible] an OREGONIAN reporter inter[illegible] Messrs R. C. Rose and J W Sperry, [illegible] survivors of a party of four, who are [illegible] city having come on direct to [illegible] A perusal of the following, [illegible] the story told by them, will show [illegible] is not the place for a poor pros[illegible] should serve as a warning to all [illegible] ever thought of going into the in[illegible] Alaska in the search of the glitter[illegible] metal.

OFF FOR FORTY MILE CREEK.

[illegible] the 30th of April last a party of pros[illegible] consisting of Frank C. Young, R. C. [illegible] J W. Sperry and A. Ingram sailed [illegible] on the steamer Geo W. Elder [illegible] Chilandrin river which is com[illegible] Forty Mile creek. They dis[illegible] at Juneau May 8, and three days [illegible] for Chilcoot portage, which is [illegible] head of salt water navigation on the [illegible] They left the portage on the 18th [illegible] over the divide to Lake Linder[illegible] which is one of the sources of the [illegible] Yukon. All of the baggage, provis[illegible] was carried over the divide by [illegible] who charged $15 for every 100 [illegible]

[illegible] arriving at the lake the prospectors [illegible] a boat with which to transport [illegible] provisions etc., down to Forty-Mile [illegible] and immediately started down the [illegible] for the source of the Yukon, a [illegible] of about 100 miles from where the [illegible] launched. After once striking the [illegible] trip down was more of a pleasure [illegible] anything else. The current of the [illegible] very swift, and frequently as much [illegible] a day was made The river is in [illegible] places very bad, and many of the [illegible] are exceedingly dangerous. Twice [illegible] to be taken out of the river and [illegible] around impassable rapids Game [illegible] the river was found to be very plenti[illegible] and the prospectors were well supplied [illegible] fresh meat. Everyone's spirits were high, [illegible] the quartette would have scoffed at the [illegible] had anyone suggested, that indescrib[illegible] sufferings were yet in store for them. [illegible] less than twelve days after starting [illegible] the Yukon, the gold hunters

REACHED THEIR DESTINATION

[illegible] idea of the swiftness of the Yukon's [illegible] can be had when it is known that [illegible] the twelve days over 600 miles were [illegible] notwithstanding several stops were [illegible]

[illegible] arriving at Forty Mile creek, the out[illegible] was anything but encouraging to the [illegible] Miners were found arriving [illegible] all directions and their reports were [illegible] good. Gold was to be found, [illegible] in paying quantities for either a pan [illegible] The prospectors referred to in [illegible] prospected around considerable, [illegible] found nothing that would pay them bet[illegible] per day Nothing less than $50 a [illegible] will pay a miner in this region, owing to [illegible] great expense of living. Mining opera[illegible] can only be carried on four out of [illegible] twelve months, owing to the extreme [illegible] It costs about $400 to winter at the [illegible] and even then the miners have to [illegible] the hogs, and if they do not [illegible] a great deal of exercise they get the [illegible] which in many cases proves fatal [illegible] Messrs Rose and Sperry say [illegible] hundreds of miners who owe the trad[illegible] all the way from $200 to $[illegible]000 for [illegible] with no way of paying up They [illegible] even have up enough to carry them [illegible] country.

[illegible] satisfying themselves that there was [illegible] to be gained by prospecting any [illegible] the four men unanimously decided [illegible] up their search for gold and return. [illegible] They first built a new boat as the [illegible] used in coming down the river was [illegible] large to pull against the strong [illegible] With their new craft and all the [illegible] provisions for a six weeks' trip [illegible] started out on the 27th day of [illegible]

THEIR RETURN TRIP

[illegible] the start was made the river com[illegible] from melted snow and it re[illegible] the utmost energy and strength to [illegible] the boat against the current. It [illegible] that no headway could be made [illegible] so a rope was attached to the bow [illegible] boat and three of the men followed [illegible] hauling the craft while a third re[illegible] in the boat to keep it from the shore [illegible] twenty-five days of this slow work [illegible] discovered that their provisions were [illegible] low, and that they would probably [illegible] enough to last them until Lake [illegible] was reached They accordingly [illegible] to replenish their stores [illegible] trading post at Stewart [illegible] When the post was reached it was [illegible] the keeper was away from home [illegible] was locked up No one was found [illegible] open the door, and they could not [illegible] stealing it The party [illegible] to the conclusion that they [illegible] enough, anyway, to last until [illegible] was reached, allowing for [illegible] they expected to kill on the way [illegible] and continued until [illegible] then they [illegible]

EXHAUSTED THEIR PROVISIONS.

[illegible] being able to work the boat on an [illegible] it was abandoned about [illegible] the mouth of Salmon river and [illegible] started afoot following the river [illegible] as Lake LaBarge, at which [illegible] struck an Indian trail and think [illegible] cut off a bend in the river and [illegible] instead, the trail led up the [illegible] tributary of the Yukon. At the [illegible] abandoning their boat, the pros[illegible] about 300 miles to travel through [illegible] rough country, starting on empty stomachs. They trusted to meeting with some one supplied with provisions, or else keeping alive on what they could kill.

They traveled about 100 miles on this trail having to depend on what they could kill and wild berries for subsistence. They encountered but little game, principally pine squirrels and only a few of them. After traveling some distance on this trail Ingram and Young became very much exhausted and it was with great difficulty that they could be induced to travel.

INGRAM AND YOUNG DIE.

On the 11th of August, Ingram was so much exhausted, having lost his reasoning, laid down and refused to move, and died in a few hours.

On the following day while traveling through a particularly rough strip of country, Young grew very weak. At 9 A. M. he stopped and refused to move another step. He told his companions that they had better go on and save themselves, that he was going to die and that nothing could save him. His companions tried to reason with him, but to no avail. He was much demented at times, but was perfectly rational at the last and resigned to his fate. He disposed of his property in writing and after his companions built him a fire he layed down and apparently dropped off in a deep sleep, but it was the sleep of death.

These two unfortunates suffered the most intense agony and were most horribly tortured by the gnats, their faces being swollen and eyesight gone from the ravenous attacks of these little insects. The two survivors did everything in their power to alleviate the sufferings of their dying companions, but their own condition was so bad they could do but little. Young and Ingram had time and time again begged their companions to shoot them or else leave them to their fate. Several times they would walk slowly and allow Rose and Sperry to get in the lead, and then hide. Their intentions were to get separated, and if they succeeded they knew that it would only be a matter of a few hours before death would claim them.

After seeing that nothing more could be done for Young, the remaining two pushed on, and on the 14th of August were gladdened and most likely saved from sharing the fate of their two companions by discovering an Indian cache containing fifty-three dried salmon, a shotgun and other articles belonging to a trapper's outfit, who had intended putting in the winter months in that locality. They of course took possession of the salmon, but as no ammunition accompanied the gun it was left.

At this place they discovered that they were on the wrong route, and set to work to build a raft, and retraced their course down the river which occupied five days. After reaching the right route the raft was abandoned. When they reached Lake Marsh they found a large Indian cache, but it contained no eatables.

ROBBED BY INDIANS

They started to build a raft to cross the lake, when three canoes containing seven Indians came to where they were camped and went through their small packs and took everything of value, and went through their pockets, taking all their money, watches, etc., and attempted to take their rifle, but Mr. Rose resisted and the Indians felt certain that he would fight unto death before he would give it up, allowed him to retain it. He also slipped $50 down his breeches leg and saved it. After robbing them the Indians gave them an old canoe and about three days' rations of corn meal and flour and told them to depart. That night they camped on an island and being afraid the Indians would follow and kill them, they hid the canoe in some willow bushes overhanging the shore and went up in a canyon. Mr Rose stood watch nearly all night from a high rock, where he could command a view of the water, over which the Indians would have to come.

On September 13 they found two squaws fishing near Cariboo crossing and from whom they obtained something to eat. After arriving at the main Indian camp they obtained a supply of provisions which lasted them until they crossed the divide.

IN CIVILIZATION AT LAST

On the 22d of September Messrs Rose and Sperry arrived at Chilcoot Portage, having been just eighty-seven days on the journey. Captain and Mrs. Healey, residents there, did everything in their power to alleviate their sufferings and restore their strength. The two men were in a pitiable condition, weak, both in mind and body, from intense sufferings produced by hunger.

From Healey's, in company with eleven other miners, who had arrived the two survivors started for Juneau arriving there in time to catch the Elder. Both speak very highly of the kindness and attention with which they were treated by Captain Hunter and the other officers of the Elder.

A DEATH TRAP.

In the conversation yesterday Mr Rose said: "The interior of Alaska is no place for a miner without plenty of capital and even then I would not advise him to go there with the hope of doubling it. Forty Mile creek is very easy to reach, but very hard to leave. It is a regular death trap. Hundreds who go there, either die from starvation or scurvey. Our narrow escape should serve as a warning to all contemplating visiting those vast wild regions. Very encouraging reports are sent out by persons keeping trading posts to draw trade. They know that there have been none of the rich strikes reported on Forty Mile creek made, but in order to sell their goods at an enormous profit they are willing to see their fellow men perish before their very eyes. I have not language at my command to describe the state of affairs things are in but I can say that I would advise no one to go where I did."

WHO THE DEAD MEN WERE

Frank C. Young was well known by many in this city. Although only a resident of this city for about a year, he made many friends. For some time prior to the suspension of the publication of the Daily News he was connected with that paper in a minor capacity. He was fifty six years old and a native of Pennsylvania. His family reside in San Diego, Cal.

August Ingram, the other unfortunate, was forty years old and resided six miles east of Lopez Kems [illegible]. He has three sons residing at Seattle Wn. He was quite wealthy, and his trip was more to see the country than for financial gain.

News of this unfortunate affair, which will bring bitter tears to the eyes of the members of the respective families of the two unfortunate men, was sent away yesterday in the shape of lengthy letters written by Mr. Rose.

A Pleasure Trip

SAN FRANCISCO Oct 26—Mr and Mrs W. H. Crocker are making preparations for a pleasure excursion North. A number of friends have been invited to be the guests, and private cars furnished with every conceivable comfort are being placed in readiness for the trip, which will extend to Puget sound.

GREAT DANGER OF MOB VIOLENCE

Thrilling Experience of Colville Miners—A Question of Veracity Saves Clark and the Gallows at Tacoma.

HELENA, Oct 26.—M. W. Wilson, ticket agent of the Northern Pacific at Butte, suicided this afternoon. Drink and losing $300 of his employer's money at a faro game last night, led to the rash act. He returned to his room about midnight and was at his desk in the office at the usual hour. The checks coming in, resulted in the discovery of his crime.

Wilson went out. A number of his friends were notified, and they readily agreed to endorse Wilson's notes and square him with the company. One of them started for his room and had his hand on the knob, when he heard a pistol shot. The door was broken open. Wilson was on the bed in the throes of death. An empty glass and partially empty bottle of chloroform on the washstand gave evidence that he had taken poison. The coming of his friend doubtless impressed him with the delusion that an officer was after him and he chose the speedier method of self destruction of the bullet, which entered the right side of his head, just above the ear and imbedded itself in the pillow. Wilson breathed for about half an hour, but never regained consciousness. On his person was found drafts and money amounting to some $850. His shortage amounts to about $400.

SEATTLE TOPICS.

President Oakes Promises Seattle Equal Wheat Tariff With Tacoma.

SEATTLE, Oct 26.—C. H. Prescott, second vice president of the Northern Pacific, was in the city this morning, accompanied by his wife, and went to Victoria this afternoon.

A telegram was received here to-day from President T. F. Oakes of the Northern Pacific, stating that Seattle would be placed on an equality with Tacoma in rates on grain as soon as the city furnishes facilities for handling all the grain which may be shipped here.

G. A. Adair, president of the Board of Trade said he thought the city had sufficient facilities now as there was warehouse room for 20 000 tons, but the Board of Trade in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce would immediately take steps to provide accommodations for all grain shipments that may come in. It will be remembered that in the recent extension of Tacoma rates to Seattle grain, flour and millstuffs were omitted while merchandise, lumber, etc. were included. Grain however, was considered more important than the others, as under the old discriminating rate it would cost about $1000 more to load with wheat on an ordinary sized vessel in Seattle than in Tacoma. The tariff was thus practically prohibitory for this class of shipments. This, it is well known, is what Seattle has been endeavoring to obtain for many years, and if Mr. Oakes's promises are carried out fully there will be no rate left in which Seattle is discriminated against in the interest of Tacoma.

There is still a great demand for Valentine scrip with very little in the market. The price offered has risen to $225 an acre.

The term of Wm. H. White United States district attorney for Washington, will expire with the admission of the state. There are many candidates for the place chief among whom are Major Thad Huston, of Tacoma, and R. B. Albertson city attorney of Seattle.

PROBABLY FATALLY WOUNDED.

A Young Man Shot in a Saloon at Farmington by a Citizen of Walla Walla.

FARMINGTON Wn., Oct 26.—This morning a man by the name of Russell, in company with Ben Cotton a cripple from Dayton, entered the Palace saloon while under the influence of liquor, and after a few remarks drew a revolver and shot Daniel Canty through the head, the ball entering the temple and back of the windpipe and out at the neck. Medical assistance was immediately summoned, but the chances of Canty's recovery are one among a thousand. Daniel Canty is a young man about 20 years of age, and is well thought of. Russell is about 28 years old, and is a son of Charles Russell, an old pioneer of Walla Walla. He is now locked up in the city jail awaiting his examination, which takes place to-day.

DANGER OF MOB VIOLENCE

WALLA WALLA, Oct 26.—A telegram has been received here announcing that William Russell son of Charles Russell a prominent horseman here, shot Daniel Canty dead at Farmington last night and that there was danger of mob violence. His father left this afternoon for the scene of the trouble.

A PERILOUS EXPERIENCE.

Two Men Get Lost for Nine Days in the Mountains.

SPOKANE FALLS Oct 26.—A gentleman just in from Colville gives a brief account of a perilous experience of two men well known in Spokane Falls who recently left this city for the mines. R. H. Kemp and A. M. Mason started from that place on the 8th instant loaded with a scanty supply of rations to make their way across the mountains to the Pend d'Oreille river depending on a dim trail and their instinct to tell them their course. On the second day out they lost their bearing, and ran out of supplies and for nine days wandered about in the mountains in the rain and snow subsisting on a piece of bacon made into soup. To add to their discomfiture their pack animal was killed by falling over a precipice.

In a very deplorable condition they found their way to a settlement on the Columbia river where they employed a guide versed in trails to take them back to Colville.

TACOMA'S RECORD OF CRIME.

A Question of Veracity Saves Clark From the Gallows.

TACOMA, Wash Oct 26.—Just before midnight Judge Allyn closed his charge to the jury, in the trial of Frank Eugene Clark, for the murder of Annie Dickinson on the night of Sept. 7th or on the morning of the 8th the question on which the verdict turns. Testimony for the prosecution fixed at the inquest the time of the killing between 1 and 2 A. M. while Clark stated from the witness stand to-day that he found the woman dead across the head of his bed at midnight when he retired. Quite a sensation followed the hearing of his testimony, as this was the first disclosure of the attitude chosen by the defense.

Weems, the principal witness for the prosecution, was positively identified by Clark as having been found in his room with the Dickenson woman, at 9 o'clock, when he was ordered away. Weems was also met by Clark, as he was coming from the room of the tragedy at midnight, as the witness entered. As Weems swore that Clark shot the woman in his presence, between 1 and 2 A. M., the issue narrows to a question of veracity between Weems and Clark. Each is corroborated by many circumstances and weakened by others but sentiment is veering in the defendant's favor on account of his personal ways and his large number of friends. As the case against Clark is less complete than the one against Lattin who afterwards confessed his guilt to counsel, the friends of Clark are hopeful of a favorable verdict.

LATER—At 2 A. M. the jury returned a verdict of acquittal.

Judge Allyn has presided at the disposition of more business during the past week than is believed of any court of which a record exists. Besides considerable civil business, ninety jurors have been sworn, seventy-eight witnesses examined, eleven lengthy arguments heard, and three important murder cases concluded, those of Bargus, Lattin and Clark.

MONTANA'S PREDICAMENT.

The "Journal" Scores Supreme Court Judges for Holding a Midnight Meeting

HELENA, Mon., Oct 26.—The judges of the supreme court will consider the mandamus case on Monday. Intense interest is centered in the result, and it has the effect of stirring up the factions and the people, and charges and counter-charges are daily printed in the newspapers. One particular subject of comment was the meeting of judges at midnight, Sunday, in Helena. It was understood they met for the purpose of agreeing upon a change of the date of convening the court from November 4 to an earlier date. Judge DeWolfe came over from Butte Saturday night and was met at the depot by Ex Chief Justice McConnell, counsel for the petitioners in the mandamus suit. Later in the evening Associate Justices Bach, DeWolfe and Liddell met at the Merchants Hotel, and were soon joined by Ex Governor Hauser and Judge McConnell. About midnight Chief Justice Blake was aroused and asked if he would unite with Associate Justices Bach and Liddell in changing the time for the Silver Bow county term. He consented to have the order issued.

The Journal referred to the meeting under the heading, "A Dark Lantern Judiciary," and regarded it "as a scandalous proceeding, suggestive of motives outside of those which should control the action of judges in the calm and impartial administration of justice and law. Think of members of the supreme court in secret conference at an unseemly hours of the Sabbath with democratic politicians, to secure partisan advantage by trickery and the shameful abuse of their judicial authority."

The law provides that in a precinct casting over 100 votes, there should be five judges. There were only three judges at Tunnel precinct. This fact alone, it is asserted was sufficient to destroy any value that the paper possessed as a return. It is pretty generally believed that in the event of an adverse decision republicans will appeal. The certified county returns are in the custody of the clerk and recorder of Silver Bow county Charles J. Booth, a democrat, and he refuses to forward the returns to Secretary Walker. In Butte there is a general belief among the republicans that a majority of the judges being democrats prejudice will interfere with a just decision. Blake is a republican.

THE BUTTE CONSPIRACY

The Husband Survives Still, and Charges the Crime Upon an Old Enemy

HELENA Mont. Oct. 26.—Oscar Stenberg, the victim of yesterday's dynamite explosion at Butte still survives his injuries. He is perfectly conscious. He is inclined to exonerate Mrs. Stenberg of all connection with the plot. He accuses Larry Schmitger of being criminally intimate with his wife and lays the entire responsibility on him for the diabolical deed. Schmitger was arrested and jailed on the charge of being accessory to the crime.

The two men had a personal encounter last summer in Stenberg's house, in the course of which a pistol was fired and both were placed under arrest. Schmitger claimed that the gun went off accidentally during a scuffle with Stenberg. The latter asserted that Schmitger was trying to shoot him when the gun went off. Schmitger claimed that Stenberg attacked him with a knife. Both parties declined to prosecute on account of the scandal paid their fines for disturbance of the peace, and the matter was hushed up.

Mrs. Stenberg's son August and Schmitger were arraigned on a charge of attempt to commit murder with the aid of giant powder, and pleaded not guilty. In default of bail, they were remanded to jail.

ATTEMPT TO OUTRAGE A WIFE

The Indignant Husband Attempts to Punish the Offender

HELENA Oct 26.—L. F. Feeley came to Butte yesterday, and surrendered himself to the officers for having shot F. W. Smith. He was at Silver Bow and when returning he was met by his Chinese cook who told him to hurry home as his wife was in trouble. He hastened toward his house, and when a short distance away, met his wife with her face bruised and clothes torn. She informed him that Smith had attempted to outrage her. Smith then came out of the house and Feeley attacked him with a knife inflicting a deep cut on his arm. The knife broke and he tried an axe, but Smith fled. Later Feeley secured a Winchester rifle and shot at Smith three times without effect. He then tried a 38 caliber revolver and shot Smith through the left arm. Bystanders then interfered and stopped the trouble.

Smith was brought to town, and is in Dr. Whitford's hospital. His wounds are not at all serious. Feeley was released on his own recognizance.

Dallas.

DALLAS, Or., Oct. 26.—M. M. Ellis returned from Portland to-day.

Hon. J. D. Lee, of The Dalles is in town.

A little boy named Harry Dunn, while driving a sand wagon from Independence Friday evening, fell off his seat and the wheels passed over him, breaking his leg below the knee. He was immediately brought to Dallas medical assistance was summoned and the fractured bone reset. He is now doing well.

The Polk County Teachers' Association met at the court house at 10 A. M. to-day. The institute was one of the most interesting ever held in the county. The next place of meeting is Independence.

The Hallock mill case was finally settled to-day, H. VanMeter taking possession of the property under litigation.

ADVICES FROM ABROAD.

The Political Outlook From a German Standpoint.

A SECOND DEFENSIVE ALLIANCE

A Sensation Caused by the Life of the Late Emperor.

GLADSTONE'S TRIBUTE TO AMERICA

He Eulogizes Our Institutions and Our Statesmen—Financial Trickery of the Shah—Funeral of King Louis.

[Copyrighted Associated Press, 1889.]

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—The proposed conference between Bismarck, Count Kalnoky and Premier Crispi has been delayed until after Emperor William's visit to Turkey. The political importance of the event is not now denied. Bismarck's project is to construct a second defensive line behind the Dreibund, consisting of England and Turkey, not committed by treaty to the special purposes of the central European alliance, but linked by kindred interests. Hence he is maneuvering to commit Lord Salisbury to a new treaty with Turkey, relating to the permanent occupation of Egypt. Bismarck's project in regard to the Balkan settlement, as communicated to the czar, has led to a temporary cessation of hostile Russian intrigues. The czar has certainly consented to permit the chancellor to try to realize some modus vivendi, holding himself free to resume independent action in the event of the scheme failing.

The news of the arrival of the imperial party, aboard the Hohenzollern, in the Piræus, was telegraphed here this afternoon. The telegrams state that heavy weather was encountered, and that the empress was prostrated with sea-sickness. The king and queen of Greece, and the crown prince received the imperial party at the entrance to the harbor. After landing the party took the train for Athens, and on their arrival there drove to the palace in state carriages. The route was lined with troops, and an immense throng gave an ovation to the imperial party.

The Socialists in the Reichstag have moved for the abolition of duties on all provisions. Although there is abundant proof of a terrible pressure on the poor caused by the existing tariff, it is improbable that the Reichstag will grant relief, although it is certain that the food question will be a prominent factor in the coming election. A section of the National Liberals support the Progressists in their demand for an abolition of the pork duties.

Freylage's book on the late Emperor Frederick has created a sensation. Prior to its publication Bismarck advised but did not insist upon, the suppression of certain passages. His complacence is attributed to Freylage's discussion of the unwise interference of the empress. Another passage grateful to Bismarck describes Emperor Frederick as afflicted with morbid moods and old in mind and body long before the fatal disease attacked him. His vital energy, the book declares, was no longer befitting the heir to the imperial crown. He often thought of abdicating in favor of his son.

A TRIBUTE TO THE UNITED STATES.

Gladstone Eulogizes American Institutions and Statesmanship.

LONDON Oct 26.—Gladstone made an address at Chester to-day on the condition of the working classes. In concluding, he urged English workmen to study the history of the American Revolution. He claimed that it was by and from this country that the love for freedom was sown in America. England now in return reaped advantages from the American vindication of those principles of freedom which animated the Revolution. The system of government in America combined that love of freedom, respect for law and desire for order which formed the surest elements of national excellence and greatness. It was not extravagance to say that, although there were only 2 000 000 of people in the thirteen states at the time of the Revolution, the group of statesmen that proceeded from them were a match for any in the whole world, and were superior to those of any one epoch.

A ROYAL CONFIDENCE MAN.

The Shah of Persia Makes Promises but to Break Them.

LONDON Oct 26.—There is loud lamentation among possessors of Persian bank shares for news comes from St. Petersburg that the shah pretended to favor the Russians precisely with the same monopoly which Baron Reuter secured from his highness here, and so there are already two big companies in the field.

Baron Reuter is furious. Sixteen years ago on the occasion of the Shah's last visit the baron paid the expenses of the costly jaunt, and got concessions which would have been worth millions if the royal confidence man had not repudiated every one of them the moment he set foot again in his own dominions. During his last visit it is now said the shah found the baron's duns rather troublesome and to quiet him gave him a lot of choice concessions. It looks now as though the shah had repudiated this agreement as he did the first and that baron is again the victim of sharp practice.

A RELIGIOUS COMPROMISE.

The Lord Mayor Elect of London Does Not Wish to Ride on Saturday

LONDON, Oct 26.—The London court of aldermen having declined to accede to the request of Lord Mayor Elect Sir Henry Isaacs that out of regard for the views of his coreligionists he be permitted to walk on the occasion of the coming lord mayor's procession which this year falls on Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath, a compromise has been reached. Sir Henry will walk through the Jewish portion of the city and then re-enter the state carriage.

EAST AFRICAN AFFAIRS

Captain Wissmann Defeats the Natives—A [illegible]

ZANZIBAR Oct 26.—Captain Wissmann the German imperial commissioner for East Africa has had an engagement with the natives under the command of Bushiri and defeated them. Three hundred of Bushiri's men were killed or wounded. The German forces lost seven men.

Three Arabs have been executed at Upwapwa for the murder of Officer Neilson, of the East African Company.

Funeral of the King of Portugal

LISBON, Oct 26.—The Funeral of King Louis took place to-day. The ceremonies were impressive. The representatives of Germany, England, France, Turkey and the royal family attended. After the ceremonies Queen Pia and the Duchess of Aosta visited the Pantheon and remained a long time in silent prayer.

THE TWO-THOUSAND TON CRUISERS.

Opening of the Bids Yesterday—Secretary Tracy Well Pleased With the Results.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Bids were opened at the navy department at noon in the second endeavor to secure satisfactory proposals for the construction of the three 2000 ton cruisers, authorized by act of congress September 7 1888. The bids did not include the armament or equipment. The bids are as follows: Union Iron Works, of San Francisco, for one cruiser, $77[illegible] 000, for two, $1 450 000, for three cruisers, $2,054,001, or $784 667 each; N. F. Palmer, Jr. & Co., of New York, for one cruiser, $674 000. The Columbia Iron Works, of Baltimore for one cruiser, $625 000, or two, $1 225 000. The Bath Iron Works of Bath, Maine, for one cruiser, $675 000 for two, $1 350,000, for three $2 025,000, Harrison Loring, of Boston, one cruiser $374 000.

After the reading of the bids Secretary Tracy expressed himself as very well satisfied with the propositions made. "The reduction of the required speed from eighteen to seventeen knots an hour probably had some effect," he said, "but the determination to build the 2000-ton cruisers at the navy yards doubtless led the constructors to bring their bids within the prescribed figures."

In response to the suggestion that he would have enough money left to equip the ships out of the appropriation, the secretary replied: "Oh, a great plenty. With one ship for $674,000 and two others for $1 225 000, there will be a balance of $201,000 left for the equipment, $67 000 each. Forty thousand dollars is enough to equip a vessel of that size, so that we may have some to apply to the payment of the premiums for speed, if earned."

THE CHINESE INDEMNITIES.

The Amount Paid by the United States to the Chinese Consul General.

WASHINGTON Oct. 26.—The suits entered against the Chinese Consul General Tsan at San Francisco, for money appropriated for Chinese sufferers by congress, has excited a good deal of interest here.

Walker Blaine to-day furnished the following statement as to the action of the state department in the matter of the two indemnities appropriated. The sum of $47 744 was paid March 25 1887, to the secretary of state and by him to the Chinese minister on March 29, 1887 and the sum of $276,619 on the 11th of January 1889, in each case after exhibition by the minister to the Secretary of a special authority from the Chinese government for the minister to receive the money. Receipts for these sums are signed by the minister and are on file in the department of state. In each case the secretary of the treasury issued warrants payable to the order of the secretary of state for the amounts named and the secretary of state endorsed them over to the Chinese minister.

COMMISSIONER RAUM'S METHODS.

He Will Personally Examine Every Pension Certificate.

WASHINGTON Oct 26.—Commissioner of Pensions Raum states that he intends to examine every pension certificate before attaching his signature to it.

"I cannot be too careful till I learn thoroughly the routine of affairs here," said the commissioner. "It has been customary for the commissioner to sign his name, or have a clerk do it by the use of a rubber stamp, but I think that is the delegation of too much power, and it should be attended to personally by the commissioner. If I can entrust a clerk to sign my name to pension certificates by the use of the rubber stamp, I cannot see why I should alone be empowered to do this work and be held exclusively responsible for it." Among the cases he made special mention of was that of a lady who was born during President Washington's administration. She is 93 years old and is the widow of a soldier of the war of 1812. She has been entitled to a pension all along but has never applied for one until recently.

Charged With Grand Larceny

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Adolph Sil and Charles Wildenburg, the latter a shirt manufacturer, were charged with grand larceny at the Tombs police court to-day. Dora Sil, the wife of the former, kept a dry goods store. It is charged that between the 1st and 10th of October Mrs. Sil called on about thirty firms in the dry goods district and purchased goods amounting to $[illegible]0,000 for which she gave notes payable in ten days. When the notes became due the firms discovered, upon sending to her place of business, that she had sold out. She cannot be found. Two men who were in her employ were held for examination.

A Desperate Fight

ST. LOUIS, Oct 26.—A special says that Sheriff Morris of Blount county, Ala., with a posse, cornered Rube Burrows, the outlaw, and his gang near Oneonta last evening. A desperate fight ensued and Deputy Sheriff Aldento[illegible] and citizen Penn Woodward of the sheriff's posse were killed. Burrows escaped to a swamp where he was surrounded.

The Collom Trial

MINNEAPOLIS Oct 26.—In the Collom trial to-day Professor D. T. Ames of the Penman's Journal of New York testified that the notes were undoubtedly forgeries. There was a great deal more tremor in the forger's hand than in the original. Collom does not appear so serene as upon the first day of the trial and the strain is evidently wearing on him.

Judgment Entered.

PHILADELPHIA Oct 26.—The notes of the great lumber firm of Wainwright & Bryant have gone to protest and judgment has been entered aggregating $310,000. MATAAFA'S PATRIOTISM

His Election as King Is Pleasing to the People.

ONLY A TEMPORARY EXPEDIENT

His Confidence in the United States and England.

LOOKS SUSPICIOUSLY ON GERMANY

The King's Wise Address—Malietoa to Support the New Regime—Reported Trouble With a Few Insurgents.

APIA, Samoa, Oct. 10.—(Per steamer Mariposa to San Francisco).—Chiefs of the various districts in Samoa held a meeting here October 2 for the purpose of electing a king to govern the islands pending a ratification by the respective powers of the report of the Berlin conference. The meeting was attended by representatives of nearly all districts about 2000 persons being present. Mataafa was elected king. The old king, Malietoa, who was recently brought back from Marshall islands was present and was in a very feeble condition. He addressed the people and thanked Mataafa for all he had done for the Samoans during his own banishment. He closed his speech by saying: "We all have full faith in Mataafa and under his guidance you will now become a prosperous people and permanent peace will be secured to Samoa. I now retire in favor of Mataafa, whom you will still follow as you did during my absence." Malietoa then retired and was so weak that he had to be conducted to his private quarters.

Mataafa then addressed the people, saying: "I accept the position of king and with God's assistance we will save Samoa for our people. Malietoa and myself are one in our feelings for the good of our people. We should all work for Samoa, we should not forget what the United States and Great Britain have done for us. We have to thank those nations for our independence. They will advise us right, and if we follow their advice it will be for our good. Germany had only tried to frighten us. It is now more than ever our duty to support our new government."

Tamasese's followers have not yet signified their assent to the election of Mataafa as king. The three consuls here have received instructions from their governments to recognize Malietoa as king, but he has stated he does not desire to rule and that his physical condition is not such as to warrant him in undertaking the responsibility. The impression prevails here, at least among the American and British residents, as well as among a great majority of the natives that Mataafa is the only man capable of filling the position. According to the determination of a recent meeting of natives, Mataafa is now king and Malietoa, vice-king, but this state of affairs may only continue until the result of the Berlin conference is announced.

Some excitement exists here on account of the fears of impending trouble on the island of Savaii. Some of Tamasese's followers have been giving trouble there and the latest information is that they attacked and injured a chief belonging to Mataafa's party. When this news was received by Mataafa he sent word to his people at the place where the trouble occurred to demand that the guilty parties be delivered to them. The excitement has been increased by the fact that 100 of Mataafa's followers are now leaving Apia for Savaii, where they will be joined by others and their intention is to burn the houses of Tamasese's men if the party who attacked the chief are not given up peaceably. It is not improbable that the expedition may result in an open conflict between the forces of Mataafa and Tamasese at Savaii.

RUMORS OF TROUBLE DISCREDITED

SAN FRANCISCO Oct 26.—Commander H. T. Woodward of the United States steamer Adams, arrived from Apia to-day on the steamer Mariposa having returned on account of sickness. Although advices from Apia, received by the Mariposa to-day, state that hundreds of Mataafa's followers had left Apia for Savaii, and that a conflict between these forces and those of Tamasese might result, no news of a battle having been fought on the island of Savaii had been received at Apia at the time the Mariposa passed the group on the 12th inst. Commander Woodward discredits the cable dispatch received from Sydney yesterday, stating that a battle had occurred between the two native forces at Samoa. He does not know of any of Mataafa's followers having gone to Savaii and says there were no indications of trouble at the time he left Apia.

A SEVERE EARTHQUAKE

The Samoan Times says that on the morning of September 19 a severe earthquake lasting between fifty and sixty seconds was felt at Apia. The buildings shook, and the trees moved as if in a gale. The waters of the harbor remained tranquil.

THE HONOLULU REBELLION.

Two of the Rebels Have Been Tried and Found Guilty

SAN FRANCISCO Oct 26.—The trial of the men who engaged in the recent rebellion at Honolulu, has been in progress for some time. The hearing of but two cases has been completed, being those of the Belgian named Loomens and a Chinaman. Both were found guilty.

Robert Wilcox, leader of the insurgents who has not yet been tried was the principal witness for the defense. He claimed that he and his men were not engaged in rebellion but in an effort to protect King Kalakaua.

MEN-OF-WAR AT HONOLULU

According to advices received to-day there are four American men-of-war stationed at Honolulu, the Iroquois, Mohican, Nipsic and Alert, the Iroquois having recently arrived from San Francisco and the Mohican from Callao. Admiral Kimberly still remains at Honolulu and the squadron is under his immediate command. It is not known outside how long the admiral will remain at Honolulu but it is reported that he will not return to San Francisco until after the coming election in the Hawaiian kingdom and it is believed that the four war ships will also remain here until after the event.

RAILROAD INTERESTS.

The Fast Transcontinental Mail Service to Be Changed.

SEVERAL HOURS WILL BE GAINED

A Rumor That Several Roads Will Combine Against the Union Pacific and Chicago & Northwestern Alliance

WASHINGTON Oct. 26—General Superintendent Bell of the railway mail service has made public an important change in the transcontinental fast mail service to take effect November 10 1889 On March 4 1889 the time going west from New York to San Francisco was 123 hours and fifteen minutes Which was reduced to 118 hours and forty five minutes On May 4 and by the November schedule, the fast mail time going west from ocean to ocean will be 108 hours and forty five minutes One very important feature of the train will be that it will reach San Francisco early in the day, and that the mails will be distributed by 10 A M On March 4 the schedule from San Francisco to New York was 141 hours On May 4 the time was reduced to 121 hours and the new schedule will reduce the time from ocean to ocean to 111 hours and forty minutes, that is four days fifteen hours and thirty minutes leaving San Francisco at 7 P M after the close of business, and arriving at New York at 10 45 A M, with the mails so assorted as to permit their immediate delivery This is a gain of from twenty nine to thirty hours on the March schedule and a gain of nine hours and twenty minutes on the May schedule, but as the arrivals at both ends will be in the morning, instead of the evening, it means the gain of a full day over the May schedule The service for all the large cities will be adjusted to unite with the transcontinental train at either Chicago or Council Bluffs or Omaha, that the advantages may be reflected throughout the entire East and West There will be no change of cars west of Omaha a distance 1870 miles

The new arrangement carries with it some important features, as the general superintendent of the railway mail service will hereafter have the right to fix the schedule from ocean to ocean provided it is not made faster than the quickest limited passenger trains over the same lines This new service is said to be of the highest importance to the transcontinental business interests of the country.

RUMOR OF WAR ON THE ALLIANCE

The Burlington, Rock Island and St. Paul To Join Against the Late Combine

CHICAGO Oct 26—The deal between the Northwestern and Union Pacific roads, continues to be the absorbing topic of conversation in railroad circles

The Times says the agreement is destined to stir up a hornet's nest as soon as it is put in operation The Burlington, Rock Island and St Paul may be expected to join forces in waging war on the combination Of the three roads named the Chicago Milwaukee & St Paul is the most seriously affected It is shut off from transcontinental business by way of St Paul by the traffic agreement between the Northern Pacific and the Wisconsin Central, and it will lose its share of business by way of Omaha, through this new deal Its line to Kansas City will not help it out of its dilemma as the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe will be able to take care of its California traffic on its own Chicago line, and the Southern Pacific has its steamship connection by way of the Gulf It is believed that the next move of the Vanderbilts will be a traffic agreement with the Chicago & Alton in connection with the Big Four

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

Continuance of the Medical Testimony—Pat Dinan Examined.

CHICAGO Oct 26—The Cronin trial was resumed this morning The evidence was continued showing the character of the wounds and the cause of death

After Dr Moore had testified at great length and with minuteness as to the wounds on Dr Cronin's body the defense moved to exclude his testimony on the ground that he had read the verbatim report of the trial made by the Associated Press in this morning's papers, which gave the testimony of Dr Egbert They argued that the physician read this knowing he was to testify and that an order of the court to exclude witnesses had been taken and was obeyed yet the reading of the testimony had precisely the same effect as the hearing Judge McConnell held it to be beyond his power to remedy the matter and overruled the motion

Pat Dinan the livery stable keeper, then testified that Coughlin one of the prisoners, engaged a horse and buggy for a friend on the day that Cronin was murdered. This friend came in the evening and took out a white horse and a buggy The next morning Coughlin cautioned witness not to say anything about his connection with the matter as it was known that he and Cronin were not friends and it might get him (Coughlin) into trouble This is the horse and buggy in which Cronin was carried to his death

After a long and severe cross examination of Dinan by Mr Forrest of the counsel for the defense in which the witness was not at all confused the court adjourned till Monday morning

WINDOM'S LEAD ORE DECISION

Senator Wolcott Gives His Opinion of Its Effect on the West.

DENVER, Colo, Oct 26—In view of the fact that Colorado is the largest lead and silver producing state in the world, and that her citizens are considerably exercised over Secretary Windom's recent lead decision, Senator Wolcott was seen to day and asked for his opinion on the decision and its effect on the West He said "The decision is an unpleasant shock and surprise to the whole mining industry of the West Already some of the mines carrying low ore and heavy in lead have closed down and others are following suit I saw the secretary in Washington last month on the subject and certainly expected a different result although the lobby in the interest of the railroads operating in old Mexico was very strong I have hopes that congress will rectify this flagrant wrong perpetrated by the treasury department In its general treatment of the West however It is on a par with the apparent policy of the present administration, as evidenced both by the president and his secretary of the interior as well as Secretary Windom. The Western country can largely take care of itself The whole doctrine of protection rests largely on a basis of enlightened and patriotic selfishness and the mining states will begin to question the policy of protecting Eastern industries, when its own are ignored

Successful Launch of the Cruiser San Francisco.

BRITISH CONSUL ASSASSINATED

An Ignorant Alien Is Refused American Citizenship—A Masked Robber at Pasadena Meets the Wrong Man

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 26—A steady downpour of rain this morning during the launching of the cruiser San Francisco to day and detracted considerably from the interest in the event The crowd of persons who found their way through the rain and mud to the Union Iron Works' shipyard was not as large as that which assembled there over a year ago to witness the launching of the Charleston, but fully 2000 people stood under umbrellas to day and watched the San Francisco slide off the ways A platform had been erected around the bow of the vessel which was occupied by a hundred persons among them being Commodore A E K Benham and other officers from Mare Island and the naval band was stationed there A tug arrived from the Presidio about half an hour before the launch and stopped a short distance from the yard On this were General Nelson A Miles and staff and other army officers A dozen other tugs and sailing vessels, crowded with spectators, were also in the yard A few minutes before the launch two young ladies, daughters of Commodore Benham and Mr Scott took a position near the bow ready to christen the new cruiser.

Within a minute or two after 12 o'clock the last "chock" was knocked away, and as the vessel began to slide down the ways, two bottles of champagne were broken over her bow The band played the "Star Spangled Banner" and the crowd sent up a hearty cheer Steam whistles from the tug boats and the foundry broke forth at the same time and the noise continued for several minutes The launch was perfectly successful The vessel went off gracefully and apparently stuck in the soft mud 100 yards from the shore

The San Francisco is a twin screw protected cruiser built entirely of steel having poop and forecastle deck with an open gun deck between Her engines boiler magazines and steering gear are below the protective deck The extreme length of the vessel is [illegible] feet extreme breadth 49 feet and 4 inches mean draught 18 8-10 feet displacement, 4083 tons Her estimated horse power under natural draught is 7500 under forced draught 10 500 Her maximum speed is nineteen knots Her rig is that of a three masted schooner without headbooms Her main battery will consist of twelve six inch breech loading rifles, and she will also carry four six pounders, four Hotchkiss revolving cannon one one pounder and two Gatlings Her motive power will be furnished by two triple expansion engines and the vessel will be lighted throughout by electricity

UNWORTHY OF CITIZENSHIP.

A Man Betrays His Politics and His Ignorance

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 26—A man giving his name as Thomas Burke applied to Judge Van Reynegom this afternoon to be naturalized and he produced a declaration of intention to become a citizen, issued by the court in Wisconsin in 1868 He was asked if he had applied to any other court for papers, and replied that he had not

Judge Van Reynegom asked among other questions, "Have you ever been engaged in a riot?"

"Say that again, sir; what is a riot?" said the applicant

"Are you attached to a republican form of government?"

"I don't understand you, sir"

"Are you in favor of a republic?"

"No sir, I am a democrat"

"A man who had been in this country a quarter of a century ought to be intelligent enough to answer such questions properly, and a man who shows as little moral sense as you do is not entitled to papers of citizenship," remarked the court. "Your application is denied"

It turned out that Burke's application to Judge Shafter had been denied a few times before he applied to Judge Van Reynegom

SECTARIAN DOMINION

Good Templars Must Believe in the God of the Bible.

NARROW CONCEPTION OF DIVINITY

Strict Adherence to the Rule Will Destroy the Order—It Shuts Out Unitarians Agnostics, and Atheists from Membership

SEATTLE Oct 26—The good templars of this city are torn up over the question of religion and the controversy threatens to disrupt the order An attempt is being made to drive out all the members who do not believe in the God of the Bible, as defined by the stricter members and many of the members in this city as well as in other parts of the country are about to resign rather than submit to sectarian dominion

The controversy began with a change in the qualifications for membership The words "The Supreme Ruler of the Universe," being substituted for "A Supreme Ruler of the Universe" In his report to the Right Worthy Grand Lodge of the World last summer Mr Turnbull, Right Worthy Grand Chief Templar of the World, defined this to mean God as defined in the Bible and being a rigid Presbyterian, he ruled that this definition meant the Trinity Thus all but Trinitarian Christians were barred out This report was adopted and thus became a law of the order This decision was transmitted from the universal body to the Right Worthy Grand Lodge of the United States and thence to the grand lodge of Washington That body met at Chautauque last August and although Grand Chief Templar Bushell, recommended that the rule be not enforced, he was overruled and was instructed to transmit Mr Turnbull's rulings to the subordinate lodges to be acted on This was accordingly done

A printed circular from the right worthy grand lodge of the world came before the Pacific lodge No 94 of this city last Wednesday evening and it was ordered that all members who could not comply with the religious requirements of Mr Turnbull be asked to resign, and that all who declined to do so should be expelled A hot discussion followed many members who could comply with the rule conscientiously objecting to such a severe test, contending that a religious test was inconsistent with the objects of the order No action was reached on the matter and consideration of it was deferred to a future meeting, but a number of members declared openly in meeting and now declare publicly that they will withdraw rather than submit to any religious test Although Grand Worthy Chief Templar Bushell is liberal and comes under the ban he urges subordinate lodges to comply with the law The new law is of far reaching effect for in Christian countries it shuts out all Unitarians, agnostics and atheists As many members of the proscribed sect in the United States are closely wedded to the original principle of Good Templarism, abstinence from intoxicating liquors there is a strong feeling in favor of breaking away from the parent order rather than have the order crippled by a sectarian test Although the controversy has been in progress for a long time this is the first place where a crisis has been reached and the first time it has become public

FIRST MATE'S DENIAL.

[illegible] How the Man Nordberg [illegible] his Injuries.

[illegible] Lewis, first mate of the George [illegible] has been charged with [illegible] the man named Nordberg, yester-[illegible] a positive denial. In explaining [illegible] the circumstances of which the charge is [illegible] based, he said:

"[illegible] In the first place, was not a [illegible] vessel, and his statement that he [illegible] capacity is a falsehood. [illegible] of the 13th of this month [illegible] and about thirty other fisher-[illegible] boarded the vessel at Pyramid [illegible] in 59 deg. 33 min. latitude. [illegible] They were a rough looking [illegible] when they came aboard I [illegible] be queer if we did not have [illegible] them. Only a short time had [illegible] of our crew came up from [illegible] and said that the fishermen [illegible] steerage quarters and were in [illegible] drinking liquor, and that they [illegible] treating the ship's sailors with [illegible] them unfit for duty. [illegible] my orders, as the ship was in the worst portion of her course. At the point where we were sailing then the sea was very rough, and I feared that if the sailors got drunk we would have serious trouble. I went at once to the forecastle and told the fishermen not to give our seamen any more whisky and also to quit drinking themselves, as we did not want any drunken men on the ship. I then went back on deck to attend to my regular duties. Hardly an hour had passed when an assistant came up again and said the fishermen had resumed their malicious tactics and were giving liquor to my men. I returned to the forecastle, and told the offenders that if they did not desist I should put them in irons. I used forcible, but not abusive language to them. I ordered them out of the forecastle, however, and as Nordberg passed through the door, he applied a vile epithet to me, and in reply I slapped him in the face. He then went with the others to the steerage and soon the steward came up and reported that they were all fighting among themselves. I went down and found one man with his head cut open, and others all smashed up. We patched up the injured man, and caused the fighting to stop. It was in this broil that Nordberg was hurt. I am not a vicious man, and never abuse my sailors, much less a passenger; but if a man gives me strong provocation while on my vessel, I shall deal with him as he deserves."

A TEMPERANCE LECTURE.

"It's Whisky That Causes Me To Do So"—A Pitiable State of Affairs.

On a warrant issued in Justice Tuttle's court yesterday morning, Arthur Kearney was arrested on a charge of threatening to kill his wife. His wife alleges that last Wednesday her husband, while drunk, assaulted her and threatened to cut her to pieces. Pending his examination, Kearney's bonds were fixed at $100, which sum was furnished by his friends.

Kearney acknowledged the threats he is charged with using, but attributed all to his weakness for drink. Said he: "It's whisky that causes me to do so, and the only way to keep me down is to put me in jail. Whisky! It has caused me the loss of my wife and two little boys," and the tears came into the wretched man's eyes as perhaps the memory of a once happy home, passed through his whisky-soaked brain. "Yes, judge," said the wretched man, as he went out, "put me in jail if I break out again. It is the only kindness you can do for me, and it would be charity to those who used to love me."

WHAT HAS BECOME OF STEBBINS?

He Procures a Ticket to San Francisco on an Order From a Clergyman, Sells It and Disappears.

Friday afternoon H. G. Stebbins presented a letter from a San Francisco clergyman to Rev. T. L. Cole, rector of Trinity church, in which that gentleman is requested to procure a railroad ticket to San Francisco for Stebbins, says the Evening Telegram. Mr. Cole complied with the request and sent an order to Mr. C. T. Battelle, ticket agent of the Southern Pacific, to issue a fare to Stebbins, which was done.

Soon after Stebbins left the office a "scalper" called at Mr. Battelle's office with Stebbins' ticket to learn whether or not it was a genuine one. Mr. Battelle replied: "Yes; but where did you get it?"

"From the purchaser," was the reply. "He changed his mind about going to the Bay. I paid him $15 for it."

"Well, I'll just keep this ticket," remarked Mr. Battelle; and so he did.

Mr. Cole was at once notified of the transaction, and he took steps to cause the arrest of Stebbins, who has not yet been found. The reverend gentleman wired to San Francisco in relation to the order Stebbins presented to him, and this morning he received a reply that it was genuine.

The "scalper" is as much interested in the apprehension of Stebbins as Mr. Cole is, in order to get his $15 back, if possible.

Still there may be a misunderstanding about the entire matter and Mr. Stebbins may have been obliged to leave the city on short notice.

GORDON, THE GARROTTER, BOUND OVER.

He Tells a Very Improbable Story—The Testimony Against Him—Bonds Fixed at $1000.

Alex. Gordon, or Edward Gordon, as his true name is learned to be, had an examination in the police court yesterday afternoon, on a charge of attempting to rob an old German under the narrow gauge depot last Tuesday night. In the absence of the injured party, whom the police have been unable to find, Deputy Prosecuting Attorney H. D. Simon made the complaint, and with such evidence as was obtainable, proceeded to try the case.

The first witness sworn was Captain W. S. Buchanan, who testified to hearing the old man's cry for help, and seeing Gordon run out from under the depot pursued by the German. The old man claimed to have been assaulted by the ruffian, and showed the finger marks on his neck, from which the blood was flowing.

Willie Jenkins, a young boy, who also saw a part of the affair, pursued the fugitive for several blocks, until he jumped into the river near Smith's mill, where he held him at bay until the police arrived.

Gordon, whose general appearance is decidedly against him as a man of honor, was allowed to testify in his own behalf, but his story did not possess the elements of plausibility necessary to convince the court of his innocence. He said that the old German insulted him by saying that he had several times been "rolled" by just such looking characters, and to punish him for this he grabbed him by the throat and knocked him down. Then, fearing arrest, as the old man made an outcry, he took to his heels.

The court held the defendant to appear before the grand jury, with bonds fixed at $1000. In default of the necessary coin or satisfactory bondsmen the prisoner was sent to the county jail. It is stated that Gordon is an ex-convict, having served a term at San Quentin.

THE BENCH AND THE BAR.

Trouble Among the Cement Company—Sentenced for Three Years—Police Court—Obtained Judgment—Legal Notes.

There is trouble among the stockholders of the Portland Cement Company. On September 16 one set of them met and elected as directors F. D. Ball, W. Lockman, O. E. Heintz, E. D. Whitney and G. G. Gammons, and on October 14 another set met and elected John Robertson, J. A. Martin, J. B. Bridges, R. J. Stuart and A. W. Middleton. President Ball filed papers in the state circuit court yesterday, praying for the nullification of the second election.

IN A HURRY FOR SENTENCE.

W. F. Farrington, indicted for stealing a suit of clothes from the dwelling of Henry Miller and a watch from B. F. Dillon's house, pleaded guilty in the criminal court yesterday and piteously asked Judge Stearns to sentence him immediately. He was sent up for three years.

C. H. Landers, alias Chris Johnson, charged with garroting Dan Coleman and robbing him of $161, was allowed until tomorrow to plead.

JUDGE TANNER'S SATURDAY GLIST.

In the police court yesterday the following cases came up at the day's session:

Andrew Frost, Harry Mooney and Frank Harvey, drunk, fined $5 each; Joseph Ladmonde and Frank Barnell, same charge, $5 each; G. A. Lincoln, charged with vagrancy, hearing continued until Monday afternoon; John Enright, who was arrested several days since on a charge of assault and battery on Andrew Carley, a saloonkeeper, who refused to give him free drinks, was found guilty and the court sentenced him to pay a fine of $20.

The case against Frank Washington, charged with larceny, was continued till Monday.

NO WRIT FOR BENNY.

Judge Shattuck yesterday denied the application for a writ of habeas corpus for Ben Patterson, the boy held by the police for larceny.

JUDGMENT AGAINST DR. E. A. JONES.

M. A. Ashley was yesterday granted a judgment in Justice Tuttle's court against Dr. E. A. Jones in the sum of $85. The amount sued for was claimed on an advertising contract. Dr. Jones contracted for space in East Portland street car, the ad. to run twelve months. At the end of five months he ordered it out, but Mr. Ashley, who had made the contract, kept it in until the expiration of the twelve months, when he sued for the full amount.

SUIT FOR ATTORNEY FEES.

Attorney J. M. Bower is suing the Oregon and Washington Mortgage and Savings bank, in the state circuit court, for $1000 fees.

DIVORCED FROM JENNY.

Judge Stearns yesterday granted A. L. Keenan a divorce from Jenny Keenan. Cruelty was the ground.

THE YOUNG BURGLARS.

Archibald Clement and Marcus H. Stevens, the two young men arrested under suspicious circumstances, near the entrance to the Veto saloon, at an early hour Friday morning, were arraigned in the police court yesterday afternoon on a charge of attempting to burglarize the saloon, and also on another charge of larceny from George Wager's saloon, on First and Clay streets. The defendants waived examination on both charges, and the court held them to appear before the grand jury under bonds in the sum of $500 on each charge. Another member of the gang, named W. W. Williams, is supposed to be implicated in the attempted robbery, and as he also waived examination, the court placed him under bonds in the same amount—$500.

The defendants in these cases are supposed to have been the prime movers in eight or ten other burglaries that have been committed within the last two months, and the police covering the beats in the upper end of the town feel a relief in their capture.

ED STROTHER RELEASED.

Ed Strother, the Short Line news agent and peanut vender, arrested several days ago on a charge of attempting to criminally assault an ignorant German girl, who came West with her parents on an emigrant car, has been released from custody. The girl, who is supposed to be the injured party, has gone with her parents to Gray's Harbor.

PROPOSALS OPENED.

Another Large Modern Dwelling to Be Erected in This City.

Sealed proposals for the erection of a large modern dwelling for Mr. R. Pidger, on the southwest corner of Ella and E streets, were opened yesterday at the office of Otto Kleemann, architect, and were as follows:

Carpenter work: J. Moeller, $5600; Lewis & Vanstom, $5989; Felix Findley, $6100; A. Muir, $6300; A. Graf, $6476; George Gardner, $7030; J. Krimbel, $10,755; Walker & Sons, $12 500.

Plumbing: G. F. Shea, $765; William Gardner, $900; Robert Brady, $995; Johnson & Lawrence, $1080; John Donnerberg, $1350.

Plastering and brickwork: Tinker Bros., $1550; Rowland & O'Hare, $1723; John King, $2590; W. Ryan, $2800.

These figures are for part of the work only, as the building is to be one of the finest of its kind in Portland.

JONES VS. JONES AGAIN.

Judge McArthur Will Not Discuss the Case Further in Advance of the Trial.

An OREGONIAN reporter called on Judge L. L. McArthur yesterday and asked him if he had seen Justice Phelan's explanation in yesterday's issue. The judge said:

"Yes, I have seen and read Justice Phelan's explanation. It raises several important questions of veracity between the justice and myself and several other gentlemen. As the case has been taken to the state circuit court on a writ of review, that tribunal will have to decide the questions. I prefer not to discuss them in advance of the trial of the case."

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, SUNDAY, OCT 27.

The old Holladay hotel in East Portland has been used as a base of operations by a gang of [illegible] who is believed have made quite a snug little sum for winter out of unwary visitors to Portland from the country during the fair. Of course none of the police of either city knew of it until they were on their way to San Francisco.

A prophet is not without honor save in his own country. Liberati, a stranger, comes here, is presented with a gold match box by his excellency the governor of Oregon, and as he would rather have it than $1000. Many of the [illegible] who voted for Pennoyer would rather have $2.50 than a gold [illegible].

The details of the terrible suffering of four miners on the Yukon river in Alaska and the death of two of their number are told this morning by the two survivors, who have at last reached their homes in this city. It furnishes interesting reading, especially to those who have a thirst after the gold that is buried under the ice and snow in the far North.

Attorney Sam Stott was robbed of his trousers and the money they contained while in Salem one night during the last state fair. The burglar was caught but after a trial was acquitted. "How did that happen?" Sam was asked. "Why, the fellow hired a good lawyer and, confound it all, he paid him out of my money! But there's one consolation," he continued reflectively. "It gives a fellow a pretty good idea of the possibilities of the profession to see justice cheated right out of her eye teeth by a smart lawyer."

There is something remarkably inconsistent in the last act of the domestic drama of Ferry v. Ferry. Mrs. Ferry gets her divorce, accepts $30,000 alimony and starts for San Francisco. Just as she was about to board the train Mr. Ferry clasps her in his arms, smacks her on the cheek until the welkin rings and then stands on the depot platform waving adieus until the train is out of sight. Either Mr. Ferry is as much in love as ever or he was remarkably glad to get rid of his divorced wife and took a very singular and public way of expressing it.

The great North Pacific Industrial Exposition has come to an end. Many have wondered why the management, in view of the vast crowds in attendance daily and nightly during the past week, did not continue the exposition another fortnight or at least another week. The directors of the association have acted wisely in closing at the advertised time. Although they might have picked up a few more dollars this year it would have created a lack of confidence in the future that could not fail to be a detriment. Besides, it is probable that everyone has seen the Exposition as often as desired. The packed crowd just before the close showed that had there been another week or two of it, the attendance would only have been scattered over more days.

The Pacific Coal Mining Company are now established in business in Portland handling the [illegible] coal. Their office and bunkers are located at North Sixth and I streets and their telephone is 612.

There is no more enterprising man in the city than the proprietor of the New York. He has banqueted all the winners of prizes at the fair.

NOTICE TO JAIL BUILDERS—NOTICE IS hereby given that at the regular November 1889 session of the Board of County Commissioners of Snohomish county, W. T., bids will be received for the construction [illegible] for furnishing the said county [illegible] with two steel cells and corridor for county jail; all bids with plans and specifications to be submitted not later than Friday, November [illegible] 1889. By order of the Board. FRANK H. LYSONS, Auditor and Ex Officio Clerk of said Board.

VOICE BUILDING—MISS HIBBARD CHURCH[illegible]ill, late of New York City, guarantees to build a powerful and flexible voice for either man or woman in six hours. The system gives a knowledge of the very root of vocal movement, and enables the student to speak, read or sing for hours without the slightest hoarseness. This knowledge is invaluable to clergymen, lawyers, teachers and all who use the voice for sustained periods. Elocution and gesture are also taught in all their departments—sacred, dramatic and oratorical.

Reference by permission to ex-President Cleveland; Dr. Chas. [illegible], vice president [illegible], New York City; Geo. A. Walton, Mass. [illegible] Board of Education; [illegible] Department Dartmouth College; J. [illegible] President Los Angeles University.

A [illegible] Musical Institute, Abington Building, Monday and Saturday from [illegible] Miss Churchill is open for reading engagements with church and other societies.

THE ORATOR [illegible]—Rev. [illegible] will [illegible] the [illegible] streets two weeks from to-day. The Hon. Mo[illegible] Kate pr[illegible] of a recent [illegible] in speaking of the [illegible] second gentleman [illegible] lived in [illegible] the M. E. church Tuesday [illegible] audience. It is useless to tell our people of the [illegible] gentle man and ability to [illegible] and to speak [illegible] with those who know [illegible] lecture. We cannot speak [illegible] of his new lecture and the beauties of [illegible] genius, captivating originality and happy wit that have been interspersed among the [illegible] and [illegible] facts of this new lecture. [illegible] subject is of [illegible] magnitude [illegible] where [illegible] and history are lost in the [illegible] The lecturer possesses a [illegible] mind [illegible] upon his subject [illegible] for [illegible] all opposition [illegible] now [illegible] the grandest of all his [illegible] efforts.

A BROKEN SCALP WOUND.—Friday evening about [illegible] o'clock John W[illegible], a German carpenter, while at work on a house on the extremity of Madison street, was struck by a board falling from the second story window and sustained a severe scalp wound. The board, which was sixteen feet long and fell a distance of twenty feet, struck W[illegible] a glancing blow, tearing the scalp down on one side of the head nearly three inches. Had it struck him squarely the injury would have been much more serious and it is doubtful whether W[illegible] would have escaped without a fractured skull. The injured man was taken to the Portland hospital, where a surgeon attended his injuries. The scalp was sewed up and W[illegible] will come out all right.

WHOSE BOY IS HE?—A lady called at the city jail about 6 o'clock yesterday evening to deliver a boy about 3 years old, whom she had found wandering aimlessly about in the vicinity of Second and Salmon streets. The little fellow either could not or would not talk, but appeared to be perfectly contented with his new quarters in the police captain's office at the city jail. He never cried even a little bit, and his dreamy blue eyes blinked and blinked until he fell asleep in the large arm chair in which he had been seated. The little fellow wore a red [illegible] skirt and was bare headed. Up to a late hour last night no anxious mother had been at the jail to inquire for her lost child.

THE STEAMSHIP [illegible], running on the Alaska route, has been withdrawn, and the fine steamer City of Topeka substituted. She will sail from San Francisco November 2, first touching at Port Townsend, Seattle and Tacoma, leaving the latter point November 9 for Alaska and way ports. Owing to the nature of her cargo, which consists largely of combustibles, she will not be able to take passengers this trip. Freight consigned in her care will be taken by O. R. & N. Co.'s steamers and connection made at Port Townsend.

Y. M. C. A. MONTHLY BULLETIN.—The October number of the monthly Bulletin, published by the Young Men's Christian Association of this city, is out of press. Besides a full account of the proceedings of the second annual conference of the general secretaries of the [illegible] Northwest, recently held at Victoria, and the sixth annual convention of the associations of the Northwest, held at the same place, the issue contains notes of interest regarding the different departments of work in the local association in this city.

LINNTON is proving to be the best place for investments. With the smelter, Oregon Pottery Company and a large planing mill, dry houses, etc., located there, it can not fail to be one of the best manufacturing towns on the Northern Pacific railroad. Situated seven miles below Portland with deep water front. Lots for sale on easy terms by Seldon & Bunker, First National Bank building, or W. A. Alcorn, Linnton.

LIBERATI SERENADES GOVERNOR PENNOYER.—Liberati's band serenaded Governor Pennoyer late Friday night. The governor had retired, but the sweet music strains brought him to the front and he bid the boys make merry. Liberati prizes the governor's gold [illegible] box gift very highly. "I would rather have this beautiful present than $1000," he said. "I prize it because it is a gift from the governor of Oregon."

PROPERTY ADVANCING.—There now remains but three days in which to secure lots in Detroit, Washington, at the present low figures they are being offered. After the 1st day of November all remaining unsold lots, there now remain but 407, will be advanced 50 per cent. Lots from $40 to $12 at the office of Clune, Rees & Co., No. 110 Second street.

CALEDONIAN ENTERTAINMENT.—From the elaborate programme issued by the Caledonian club for Thursday evening, which is published in another column, they have evidently endeavored to outdo any of their previous efforts, and those who attend are sure of spending a very pleasant evening.

ON A VISIT.—Mr. E. J. Stockpole and wife, from Harrisburg, Pa., is in the city, having arrived from the East via Tacoma yesterday. He is accompanied by his wife. Mr. Stockpole has for some years been connected with journalism. He will remain several days in this city.

AT THE [illegible].—Mr. Cordray wishes to announce to the public that he has made arrangements with Ajeeb, the great automatic chess and checker player, by which this wonderful piece of mechanism will be exhibited at his place of amusement during next week.

AN USHERS' SOCIAL.—The ushers of Taylor street church will give a social in the church parlors next Wednesday evening, October 30. A choice musical and literary programme has been arranged. Admission 10 cents. Come and bring your friends.

A CARDINAL painted 300 years ago by Titian, is exhibited in the show window of the Great Eastern Tea Co. at 54 Washington street. Go and see it, and at the same time try a package of breakfast wafers, of which this company is the sole agent.

GET A HOME WHILE YOU CAN.—Wheatland lots are best. See "ad." under "New To-day." Free covered carriage to show the property. Come to-day, rain or shine. Installments of $1 per week. G. W. McCoy, 10 Stark street, upstairs.

W. J. COLVILLE'S classes in the science of health and healing begin at 432 Tenth street, corner Market, Friday, November 1, at 2:30 and 7:45 P. M.; one week only. Apply between 2 and 5 or 7 and 8 of Miss H. M. Young, agent.

THE CURTIS buggy will be on exhibit at 204 Front street this week only. Those wanting a stylish, durable and easy riding buggy should not fail to examine the Curtis before buying. Doctors are especially invited.

BEAUTIFUL WHEATLAND LOTS.—Best in the market. Only $100, on installments of $1 per week. See [illegible] "New To-day." The last of them [illegible] rain or shine. G. W. McCoy, 10 Stark street, upstairs.

BY SPECIAL REQUEST Ajeeb, the wonderful chess and checker player, will be on exhibition in the Exposition building this afternoon for positively the last time. This is one of the greatest marvels of the age.

MR. OSBORN'S LOSS HEAVIER.—J. W. O[illegible], whose tea store on Morrison street was burned Thursday evening, has figured that his loss will be heavier than at first reported. It amounts to $2500.

WHEATLAND LOTS.—Are clean, high and level. Only $100, on installments of $1 per week. See ad. under "New To-day." The last of them will be sold to-day, rain or shine.

[illegible] STREET CHURCH TO-DAY.—[illegible] the renowned cornetist, will play at [illegible] street church this morning.

MRS. [illegible] will form a ladies' reading club [illegible] on a new plan Monday [illegible]

STOVES REPAIRED at your homes. Examined free. Address [illegible] Merchants hotel.

THE GREATEST SUCCESS

There Has Not Been a "Catch" in the Lighting of the Exposition Building.

It was only after much hesitation on the part of the fair managers that it was decided to light the immense Exposition building by means of electricity. It was predicted by the dissenters to this proposition that electricity was at best uncertain; that it could not be depended on for furnishing a steady and unflickering light, and that its use was attended with altogether too many risks to justify it being adopted as a means of illumination in the big structure. The experience of the fair managers in this respect, however, has tended to entirely dispel this illusion, for such it has proved to be. But there is one thing in this connection that the general public must not lose sight of, and that is that the perfect lighting of the building by electricity was directly due to the perfect engine which furnished the motive power for running the dynamos. This was one of the famous Russell high speed automatic engines, one of the best engines made in the world. Its action is practically perfect, its motion is noiseless, it runs without a tremor and its speed regulation is absolutely perfect. A great feature of all these engines is the automatic cut-off and the balance valve, insuring uniformity the start all time and the most absolute control of the engine. Thousands of visitors to the great Fair [illegible] have commented on the perfection of the big Russell engine in the exhibit of Russell & Co. at the fair, and as many thousands have watched with the greatest degree of interest the motion of the high speed engine in the engine room. The firm of Russell & Co., with headquarters in this city for the coast, have certainly made a great hit in the Exposition, and their engines must for a long time in the future remain the principal ones sold in the market.

Pasco lots from $50 to $500 each.

A PROFOUND CHANGE

At Plymouth church, in Milwaukee, recently, Rev Mr Titsworth delivered a discourse in which he reviewed the changes that have taken place in the doctrines of Congregationalism during the last fifty years, showing that the parts of the confession of faith which were formerly most in favor in his own church have either been made non committal on points that were considered the cardinal doctrines of every true Christian church or dropped altogether It was not his purpose Mr Titsworth said, to discuss Adam's fall, the atonement, the miracles and prophesies but only to show that belief in these ancient doctrines was not essential to membership in his own church

This change is as general as profound An indication of it is presented in the article on "The Bible" in the last edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica by Professor Robertson Smith—an article that deals with the Scriptures wholly on the literary and historical principles and rejects altogether doctrinal and dogmatic interpretations A further illustration of the readjustment of the elements that constitute orthodoxy is supplied by Professor Briggs of the Union Theological seminary of New York (Presbyterian) in a recent address He declares that the ideas of old books on evidences respecting miracles and prophecies could not stand to-day in the face of the results of critical investigation, and he appears to agree with Professor Smith that the stories of the fall of Adam and the deluge and in fact, all the stories of the creation, are "chaste articles pure simple, exquisite touching poems but only poems This address is to be brought out soon by the Scribners, in pamphlet form, under the title of "Biblical History,"

It is impossible longer to have any canon of interpretation of the Bible different than that followed in the interpretation of other literary records Nor is it possible longer to maintain that the books of the Bible were produced in any manner different from that in which other books are produced Every body of literature, the Bible included, grows naturally out of the life and history of a people, and the conclusion to which the whole world is rapidly arriving is that in the production of the books of the Bible there was nothing at all more miraculous than in the production of the poems of the Homeric cycle or the dramas of the age of Shakespeare. All literary records grow naturally out of the evolution of human life A body of literature of any age is an expression or transcript of the thoughts, feelings and actions of that age, the divine element is in it just as the divine element is in man and this divine element was not monopolized by the Hebrew Scriptures of the Old and the Greek Scriptures of the New Testament.

BRUTALITY AND COWARDICE.

A court martial was called last week at the United States Naval Academy to try certain students for "hazing" certain other students At the Syracuse N Y university on the 9th inst two freshmen, named Hoar and Van Arnam were assaulted by eight sophomores while out walking with young lady classmates bound forced into carriages driven three miles to a swamp, where they were stripped naked and subjected to all manner of indignities. Hoar's handsome blonde mustache was cut off with scissors and a strip of his hair clipped from his forehead to the back of his head Van Arnam's hair was cut in a circle a tuft being left on top of his head. Black paint was used in disfiguring the persons of the freshmen. The sophomores came back to town leaving the two young men tied to trees Hoar and Van Arnam managed to free themselves after suffering terribly from the cold, and walked to the city arriving about daylight Another outrage of this sort was recently perpetrated at the University of Wisconsin, where a party of sophomores overpowered a freshman and sheared the hair off his head with a tinsmith's shears

The disgusting feature that all these college outrages have in common is their vulgar brutality and miserable cowardice This college brutality and cowardice is, we believe peculiar to America and to young Frenchmen who are art students in Paris whose inhumanity extends even to the abuse of a cripple or a hunchback comrade In England we assume that fair play is observed at least to the extent of making it impossible for a half a dozen fellows to outrage the sanctity of a student's person by a cowardly united attack Thackeray in "Vanity Fair" makes his hero William Dobbin fight the bully of the school and whip him because the bully beat a little boy While schoolboys are fond of torturing a helpless timid comrade all the world over, we believe it is only in America and France that young men old enough to go to college hunt a single man down with a whole pack of cowardly dogs This vile business could be possibly stopped if every college faculty handed these young brutes over to the local police court for punishment and every parent whose boy was thus outraged spared neither time nor money to see that these creatures were brought to justice The very first lesson a young man needs [illegible] lesson that his character as a collegian [illegible] him above the law when [illegible] of ruffianism for which [illegible] he were not a collegian No cowardly brute destitute [illegible] student [illegible] to be allowed to stay twenty four hours in college after his guilt was [illegible]

There is a little boy in Portland to-day who was made a cripple for life by one of his schoolmates bending him suddenly back over a seat and standing upon his head Something of blame must attach to parents who allow their children to grow up without educating them to understand that acts of cruelty to the weak are detestable the sure sign of [illegible] which never animates a boy who has the first instincts of manliness [illegible] pretense about fellows who never tire to boast that they are gentlemen but no real gentleman [illegible]

endorse the proposition that the white man's regularity of supply of preparing and eating food, and of intelligent care in sickness conduces to health and longevity in Indians that must result in the increase of their numbers Naturally enough they are healthier than when, in a wholly savage state, they went two or three days without food while on the warpath or the chase, and then, like gourmands, gorged themselves on what ever came to hand Added to their at least partially civilized habits in eating under the reservation regime of regular rations and wholesome food is the fact that medicine men, with their foolish incantations, fierce sweats and cold plunges, have been succeeded to a great extent, by intelligent care of the sick under the direction of reservation physicians or army surgeons Besides, the decimating rancor of tribal wars has ceased and the United States troops are no longer in hot pursuit of hostile bands, cutting upon occasion wide swaths in their ranks

It is certainly not surprising if under these favorable conditions the vanishing process" that ruthlessly pursued the Indians from the Atlantic to the Pacific has given place first to a stationary numerical condition, followed in due course of nature by an increase in numbers

Whether this is really a rational cause for national congratulation or not it is manifestly unbecoming in humanity to deplore it. He who sees in the increase of an ignorant dependent vicious or inferior class of human beings cause for grave regret rather than sentimental rejoicing has it is true the events in which such creatures bear a part to support his opinions if not to justify them. Nevertheless the heart of humanity is too full of hope and too fortunate in experiments for the improvement of this class to permit such views to shadow the possibilities of a race or to discriminate against the Indian for a worthlessness of which he has by no means a monopoly So while it may be doubted that any considerable number of people comparatively speaking, share General Howard's evident satisfaction at the increase of Indians which he proclaims there are reasonable grounds for the belief that the more unselfish methods of civilization may in time abate in some degree the curse of existence to these wretched quasi creatures who have never as yet been assigned a useful place in the economy of nature

OUR SEA COAST DEFENSES

If Governor Pennoyer never had any audience save the democratic party of Oregon, his astounding public utterances would not be inexplicable for his party would be too ignorant to correct him If he said that Robert Burns was born before Christ and capped convivial verses with Anacreon, and his party is too credulous to dispute him if he said that John C Calhoun Thomas Jefferson and Samuel J Tilden were purer patriots, sounder and more beneficent statesmen than John Marshall Alexander Hamilton, Daniel Webster and Abraham Lincoln We can understand Governor Pennoyer's making "ducks and drakes" of history when talking to a democratic audience but Governor Pennoyer becomes a psychological puzzle when addressing the general public he says in denunciation of Senator Dolph's bill for coast defenses that "the expenditure of $126 000 000 for such defenses might about as well be dumped into the ocean—because, in the first place, modern inventions in explosives have rendered such defenses perfectly worthless and because in the second place with our nation's present strength and greatness, there is no more danger of war with a foreign nation than with the [illegible] inhabitants of the planet Mars"

The question here presented is one of fact, not of opinion it is not a party question at all, for among the last public utterances of Samuel J Tilden was his strong appeal to congress to place our sea-coast in a condition of complete defense There is not a democratic statesmen within or without congress with any reputation for intelligence to lose that has not confessed the wisdom of arming our defenseless harbors on both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard with modern guns General Gibbon a lifelong democrat and a most accomplished artillerist in his recent paper on the "Defenses of Puget Sound," an abstract of which was published in THE OREGONIAN urges in the strongest manner the importance of erecting heavy guns at once at the commanding points of these waters and in conclusion says that to-day they are so absolutely defenseless that in event of war with even the second rate powers of Europe we could make no stand short of Tenino The utter defenselessness of the Sound waters would permit any naval power to reach Tacoma without restriction Chili and even China or Japan could penetrate the waters of Puget sound without any difficulty If we could not assemble an army large enough to beat the enemy between Tenino and the Columbia Portland would surely fall while with the waters of Puget sound properly defended Portland would be secure

These views of General Gibbon are sustained by General Miles and General Howard and by every army or navy officer of any repute in this country It is an insult to the professional intelligence of the world for Governor Pennoyer to pretend that modern inventions in explosives "have rendered sea coast defenses, by fixed heavy artillery floating batteries and torpedoes perfectly worthless

Commander Sampson of the United States navy in a recent article pointed out that to-day the question of the efficiency of these modern explosives had never been proved [illegible] the necessity of sea coast defenses or of their ability to protect [illegible] our waters [illegible] accordance with the most modern scientific methods of construction and armament In a contest between land batteries of [illegible] and calibre and gun on shipboard the advantage is always with the land batteries, because the land batteries can be more perfectly protected and there is no limit to the weight of the gun that can be erected on land, while on shipboard if the guns are heavy and protected by heavy armor they will draw too much water to reach the inner harbor defenses [illegible]

[illegible] the defense of Charleston by Beauregard is [illegible] Sumter to a heap of ruins The water batteries at Vicksburg bid defiance to our fleet so did the battery on Drewry's Bluff near Richmond and the resistance of Fort Fisher with its comparatively few guns to the fire of our great fleet is another illustration of the superiority of fixed guns over anything like the same number on shipboard Russia has just mounted for coast defenses at Cronstadt a 135 ton Krupp gun which throws a projectile of about 2700 pounds Italy has just mounted four 119-ton guns in one of her shore batteries The largest guns mounted on the heaviest English ironclads are 110 ton guns Three out of four of these recently built failed on the test. It is probable that neither the Russian nor Italian government would be to-day arming the seacoast defenses with 119 ton guns if it was true that "modern explosives had rendered modern seacoast defense utterly worthless" For land defenses Krupp is now making a 150 ton gun carrying a projectile of 3000 pounds

As to the other point that we are in no danger of a foreign war it is sufficient to answer that a rich nation that has a long line of absolutely defenseless sea coast and a small navy furnishes a standing invitation to a strong and distant naval power to attack her house and spoil her goods, and some day if we persist in refusing to respect Washington's words "In peace make ready for war," that invitation will be accepted Chili China or Japan could bombard every port of the Pacific coast to-day and it would be six months before we would be in a condition to make reprisals in kind As for England, France or Russia they could lay waste to every port of the United States and we would be in no condition to offer effective resistance under two years even if we began to arm our coast to-morrow These great nations without attempting invasion of our territory at all could frightfully distress our people and we could not retaliate in kind by invasion in the absence of any effective navy except in the case of England by invading Canada Gibbon said that Europe would never see another great conqueror and yet at the time he said it the greatest conqueror the world has seen since Alexander was already a subaltern officer in the armies of the French republic beginning at Toulon the glory whose light went out with Waterloo

A Boston Congregational council recently ordained as an independent missionary a Rev Mr Noyes one of the candidates rejected by the American board of foreign missions for declining to affirm his belief in eternal punishment The New England Congregational seminaries—namely those at Yale Andover Bangor and Hartford have supplied but two laborers in the mission field during the year The case of Mr George R Matthews has excited a good deal of stir in religious circles His story is told as follows by the Hartford Conn correspondent of the New York Evening Post Mr Matthews was graduated at the Yale seminary two years ago He was a man of the highest intellectual and moral character, regarded as a representative graduate of the seminary After two years passed in theological studies in Germany he returned two or three months ago and desired to apply for mission work in Japan a country for which the board had made a most urgent appeal for missionaries Correspondence followed, and the result of it was that Mr Matthews could not submit to the doctrinal tests and methods of the home secretary and refused to go under the conditions imposed The doctrine of future probation, for holding which Mr Matthews was rejected is gaining ground among Protestants At the recent general convention of the Episcopalians in New York city the Rev Dr Mann of Missouri offered a resolution instructing the committee on liturgical revision to add to the office for the burial of the dead some suitable prayer commending the departed soul to its Creator and Savior" This resolution which implied belief in future probation was rejected by a vote of 111 in its favor to only 119 against and among those on the affirmative was the Rev Phillips Brooks of Boston

An interesting case growing out of a charivari has recently been decided by a Wisconsin circuit court It was held that a charivari is the same as a riot and the defendants, eight young men were found guilty by the jury and sentenced as the law provides This following a recent decision by the Iowa supreme court exonerating a man who had shot and killed another on the ground that the dead man was in the act of persecuting the defendant by leading a charivari party against his house and therefore deserved the fate that he met will tend it is hoped, to discourage a "sport" so-called that had its origin in the rude and vulgar familiarities of the border and that should never have been permitted to survive them Why so coarse a practice has been allowed to linger so long about the hearth stone of civilization is a mystery The estimate in which such a procedure is held by society is illustrated in the sharp censure that has fallen in some quarters upon Herndon's Life of Lincoln wherein the president is shown to have been in his youth and early manhood a participator in this and other rowdyisms that contrasted painfully with the refinements and responsibilities that environed his later years This is proof not that the biographer is a coarse and boorish man as has been freely charged but that he lent in this part of the life of a great man conditions that the decencies of civilization have outgrown

Authority is given for the announcement that the Tacoma Globe has been purchased by the gentlemen who were reported as negotiating for it two or three weeks ago, Layton Metcalf & Co late of Winona Minn The successful consummation of this transaction is a fortunate one for the people of Tacoma as we hope it may prove to be for the gentlemen chiefly interested Messrs Layton and Metcalf are very efficient [illegible] journalists both graduates from the office of the St Paul Pioneer Press and both well equipped with the larger practical training that comes from the management and control of a successful newspaper of their own For the last four years they have been the owners of the Winona Herald, which they built up from an obscure weekly to a popular and prosperous daily They come to a larger field [illegible] with the prestige of success behind them [illegible] They have every qualification for the work of giving Tacoma [illegible] newspaper

The democratic party is still driven to the cruel strait of forcing Allen G Thurman upon the stump The brave but weak old man broke down completely in attempting to make a speech in Cincinnati Friday evening and had to be carried from the hall to his hotel When a man reaches the stage in life wherein his intellectual strength resembles the flash of lightning rather than the blaze of noon he should in common humanity be permitted to rest his political fame upon past achievments and dwell with quiet in his own home

A revolting story of enforced cannibalism unequalled in horror since the reports of the Greely Arctic expedition were published, was told in our dispatches yesterday The public would fain believe the story a horrid fiction and censure the press for telling it but the evidence unfortunately forbids this and compels a shuddering belief in its truth To censure men under such circumstances is impossible We can only turn from the sickening recital of their sufferings with pity and disgust

The Salem Statesman reports the last trip of the steamer Modoc between Salem and Albany as a feat unprecedented in boating in the Willamette river Water in this portion of the river is scarce so scarce that the experienced and sagacious captain ties up in the afternoon waits for the flood tide of dew that comes about midnight and by its aid and with the help of capstan and hawsers slides over the bars Forty-eight hours for the round trip between Salem and Albany is pretty good time under such circumstances

GENERAL RAUM'S APPOINTMENT

Toledo Blade His choice will be generally approved not only by the politicians but by the members of the Grand Army of the Republic

New York Press Nobody needs to ask who is Raum, for the whole country remembers his conspicuous and honorable service as commissioner of internal revenue

Minneapolis Tribune The appointment of General Raum is a case of the office seeking the man That is one good reason for believing that he will prove the right man in the right place

Omaha Republican It can be safely predicted of him that he will do full and exact justice to every old soldier whose case may come before him while at the same time observing all the legal limitations of his action

Cleveland Leader He is entitled to a fair chance and should be judged only by his acts and not by any feeling of resentment at a change of officials His appointment is not due to the pressure of politicians Even the senators of his own state had no idea that he would be selected It is clearly a choice of the president's own making and it is equally clear that the sole consideration was his fitness to conduct the office according to the laws with justice to the veterans and the protection of the government in view

Pittsburg Dispatch (Ind) The appointment of a man like Green B Raum to the pension bureau may be taken as a favorable example of the salutary effect which a troublesome position may have in inducing careful selection However the responsibility for the late pension dispute may be assigned by different persons there can be no dispute that it had developed a decidedly weak point in the administration. The appointment of General Raum seems likely to go far toward redeeming the failure He has already in his official career earned the reputation of an energetic and capable chief of bureau and in the internal revenue bureau especially which he held for seven years just after the exposure of the whisky ring scandals he made a record beyond reproach It is to be hoped that his administration may satisfactorily adjust the rather difficult pension problem

THE DEATH OF WILLIAM BECK

William Beck one of Portland's most valuable and enterprising citizens departed this life on the 24th inst after an illness of less than two days Aged 71 years 11 months and 22 days He was born in Roxbury Penn November 22d 1817 Descended from sturdy stock he has manifested their characteristics through a long life of useful and indefatigable labor He has done as much as any man in his day and generation to make the name of [illegible] honorable and to dignify it Next to his love for his [illegible] and his devotion to his family he was noted for his love for work Even at his advanced age up to within two short days of his decease he performed his daily duties at the large and prosperous business establishment, which he had built up by his energy frugality industry and honorable dealings with as much [illegible] and unflagging attention to details as the youngest and most active clerk in the store His activity strength and endurance was remarkable for one of his age He was a pleasant man to know when once his confidence was established in and his friendly regard secured by an acquaintance He was not a showy man but with a mind well stored by reading and observation was singularly entertaining in his conversation Next to his love for his family and his regard for his business interests the city of Portland claimed his highest consideration He took extreme pride in its growth prosperity and development He has been a prominent factor in the promotion of many public enterprises notably that of the construction of the Morrison street bridge which has probably done as much as any local work to advance the interests of the city

Mr Beck crossed the plains in 1852 and came direct to Portland and has remained here ever since He was a familiar figure on the streets and not only his family but hosts of friends will miss him from his accustomed haunts He leaves a beloved wife one daughter Mrs Ed Stone now residing at Spokane Falls, and two sons William [illegible] his partner in the house of William Beck & Son and George [illegible] residing in East Portland to whom his death is an irreparable loss His passing away has severed another of the links which binds the Portland of pioneer days to the busy and progressive present The city will be fortunate if the young business men of this era emulate the example he has left them of devotion to duty [illegible] to every trust imposed upon him Peace to his ashes!

THE BIG FAIR IS OVER.

Fully 15,000 People in the Building at the Wind Up.

SWEETEST AIRS FOR THE SONS OF ERIN

The Fair Hall Crowded Long Before Liberati Began Playing—The Exposition a Success—The Drawing for the Grand Prize.

The first exposition of the North Pacific Industrial Association is over It went out in a blaze of glory last night and nearly 15,000 people attended it in its last hours. To-day Liberati's band will give a concert in the hall and to-morrow the work of removing the exhibits will begin.

At seven minutes to 7 o'clock by the watch by of which this snapper of unconsidered trifles takes note of time, and Saturday night at that and moreover, the last night of the first great exposition of the North Pacific Industrial Association, and every seat in the spacious galleries taken and hundreds more looking for seats and a steady stream of visitors pouring in at each entrance. And this in Portland, Oregon, on the night of October 26, 1889, a little showery but not a suspicion of frost or chill in the air Roses and lilies and asters and camelias in bloom in the open air, roses in great and fragrant clusters on the bosoms of fair women, twined in the meshes of their lustrous wreaths of hair, fruits and vegetables in abundance, rich fabrics, wonderful inventions elegant displays of industry and art, tempting lures in the shape of bric-a-brac and ornaments, all the paraphernalia in short of a great show, a successful fair a splendid and successful exposition to be seen for the last time, and thousands of people looking at all these things and sincerely regretting that the splendid display is to be closed until further notice after to-night, that the curtain is to be rung down about 10 30 P M upon an altogether pleasing succession of entertainments musical, social and fraternal in which thousands of new acquaintances have been made and old friendships revivified and renewed.

A GREAT THING FOR PORTLAND

The great Exposition has been a great thing for Portland and the state and the great Northwest indeed, it has been a great thing for the Pacific coast. Californians freely acknowledge it, the folks from Washington Idaho and Montana admit it, the people of Portland know it and they and their children and brothers and sisters and uncles and aunts and cousins and friends and neighbors gathered in force last night to emphasize their approval of what has been done for their instruction and amusement, to express their regrets that the closing scene was at hand and to express the hope that in eleven months from the present date the doors of the Exposition building will open to another series of similar delightful afternoons and evenings

Yesterday afternoon's musical programme was in full line with those which have won unqualified praise. Ten numbers from the portfolios of the best composers were given. The great building, from 3 to 5 P M, however was in a measure given up to the countless throngs of children who flocked to "the show" as "doves to the windows" and were made happy by free distributions of picture cards and candy Even Liberati's music was subordinated to the unrestrained joy of young America The wee bit tots from the kindergarten were there, and if happy faces are any index of feelings expressed they had 'the best time' of any-one present, and who begrudges them their enjoyment? Not this scribe most certainly

MUSIC FOR THE SONS OF ERIN

The first part of the evening programme was arranged for the special delectation of the natives of the Green Isle. A rollicking air, tinged with just enough of the serious to keep the tendency to risibility in order, was the theme of the first selection Mr Liberati found ample scope for his skill on the cornet as well as a fit theme for its sweetest and its sweetest tones in "Eileen Mavourneen" Liberati sounded the charming strains of "Killarney" on his silver-working cornet and, having moved everyone to tears and all to tender and gentle thoughts, turned tears to smiles with the delightful melody of "The Pretty Girl Milking the Cows." The orchestra gave the "Irish Brigade" with a dash and vim which sent the Celtic blood to fever heat Half the people present kept time with swinging arms and shuffling feet, and if there had been room to swing corners it is the writer's opinion that from thirty to forty cotillions would have been going on on the floor at once.

SLINGERLAND WOULD HAVE DANCED

If our old Tom Slingerland who used to be lieutenant governor of Nevada twenty-five years ago were alive and had been on hand last night, there would have been a fling anyhow It was a sight to see Tom in the last figure of the cotillion was danced and 'St. Patrick's Day in the Morning' was the tune the fiddler played, It was a sight indeed to see him swing corners and hear him give a Tipperary view holloa. Rest his soul as Dandie Dinmont said of himself, "His dancing days are over." But this is a digression The exile from Erin who makes this region his home will remember Liberati pleasantly for the familiar strains he played for them last night.

The second part of the evening programme was made up of choicest selections and these were listened to with closest attention by the throngs who seemed loth to miss a strain of the farewell evening concert. But the end came, and Liberati and his superb band artists spoke and heard the parting good-byes.

GRAND CONCERT TO-DAY

The following is the programme for the grand concert this afternoon for the benefit of Signor Liberati.

Selection—Rubinstein and Casati, Sigs Lecet and Bolli.
Rhapsody—"Hongroise"	Liszt
Cornet solo	Sig. Liberati
Selection—"Lohengrin"	Wagner

SIDE OF THE EXPOSITION

On Friday night, after the concert was over, Liberati, with his full band, visited the residences of President Dekum, Vice President Richardson and Director Kapus and gave them a serenade, a compliment duly appreciated and for which suitable thanks were returned. The residence of Governor Pennoyer was then visited, and after several airs had been played, the doors of His Excellency's mansion were thrown open and Liberati and the members of his band became for a while the governor's guests. A collation and wine aided in making the occasion an agreeable one to both host and guests Last evening at 6 o'clock The Oregonian office was made the recipient of a similar compliment, for which this paper desires to return its thanks to the talented musicians.

To-day will be the last opportunity, for the present, at least, which will be afforded the citizens of Portland to hear Liberati and his band. The time at Exposition hall from 2 to 5 P M will be occupied by the rendition of a splendid collection of vocal and instrumental music It may not be out of place to advise those wishing seats to go early.

THE GRAND ROBERTINE PRIZE.

The awarding of the grand Robertine prize at the booth of W M Wisdom at the Exposition last night perhaps attracted more attention than any single event since the first opening of the doors of the exposition The drawing took place at 9 30 sharp as had been previously announced and was conducted in a manner that was entirely impartial. Promptly at the hour named Superintendent Allen stepped inside the enclosure back of the grand Robertine booth and at the special request of Mr Wisdom filled, during the drawing, the important position of umpire. After the tickets had been all thoroughly shaken up little Roberta Wisdom the beautiful five year old daughter of the popular druggist placed her hand in the box and drew forth the lucky number which was found to be 930 held by Mrs Philip Wasserman of this city

This prize is certainly the grandest single prize ever given away for advertising purposes on the coast. The object sought to be obtained by Mr Wisdom in making this grand award was to bring his famous toilet article. Robertine, more prominently before the people and in this effort he has been pre-eminently successful He distributed at the fair about 5000 tickets, each of which was a treatise in itself on the merits of Robertine The watch itself is a perfect little gem, and could be worn with pride by any lady in the city It is one of the highest grades of watches sold in this market and has the recommendation of A Feldenheimer, the leading jeweler of the city A full description of this beautiful little timepiece appeared in yesterday morning's issue.

This mention of the award would not be complete without more than a passing notice of Mr Wisdom's efforts towards the success of the fair He made not only the most expensive exhibit by far in the whole building but ever since the first opening of the Exposition he has been indefatigable in his efforts to keep up the interest attached to his display with the one idea of extending to all visitors every courtesy in his power. Mr Wisdom himself is a young business man, who has already made a way for himself, and his success at the fair establishes him as a man who is entitled to the respect and confidence of the entire business community He to-day occupies a most prominent position in the business circles of the city, and unless some unforseen circumstance overtakes him he will most certainly become the leader in his line on the coast.

He showed his usual enterprise and forethought in erecting at great expense in the Exposition building the magnificent temple which has appealed so directly to every visitor of taste who has visited the fair This temple has perhaps been seen by no less than 150,000 people during the continuance of the exposition and everyone who has cast a glance at it has carried home a most vivid recollection of the word Robertine" It has not only commanded the attention but has called for the admiration of every intelligent visitor to the fair, and no discriminating person has left the building without being impressed with the good taste and judgment Mr Wisdom showed in erecting and fitting up this really elegant piece of work It has probably occurred to nearly all of the intelligent visitors before this that this temple is simply symbolic of the good work that Mr Wisdom is at present engaged in, and with which he is destined to become so prominently identified It has been his constant aim to cater to the beautiful (from the ladies' standpoint particularly), and it was with this end in view that he conceived the idea of Rbertine the most valuable of all face preparations that are now sold in the world This most valuable preparation is now meeting with the largest sale of any single face preparation and it has the highest endorsements of many ladies of the lyric and dramatic stage as well as the recommendations of many of the most prominent physicians and chemists all over the United States as a valuable and perfectly harmless preparation men who would not for a moment lend their names or support to an inferior article Robertine will in a few years hence become the universal face preparation used by ladies all over the world, and this in connection with Wisdom's Violet is to-day the best and most harmless article of the ladies' toilet manufactured

A WORD FOR DR PFUNDER

There is to day no more enterprising druggist and chemist on the coast than William Pfunder, of this city It has been this gentleman's constant endeavor ever since he first opened his laboratory in Portland to devote much of his time to the study of Oregon herbs and roots many of which previous to his coming here had long been known to possess medicinal qualities that were of some value for their curative powers The doctor's explorations in this direction convinced him that many of these roots and herbs were simply invaluable as furnishing medicinal extracts which would be specially efficacious on this coast After becoming convinced of this fact, Dr Pfunder put in an extensive laboratory and commenced the preparation of what to-day is famous all over the United States as Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier In malarial complaints, diseases of the kidneys and general debility, and as regulator of the system, this medical preparation has proved particularly efficacious, and it is a household remedy at the present time all over the country This is but a single one of the valuable preparations now manufactured by Dr Pfunder all of which are regarded as nearly infallible remedies in the Northwest.

With his customary enterprise, Dr Pfunder made this year one of the most pleasing exhibits in the entire fair. He has shown here a fine collection of Oregon herbs of his own gathering and also his soda fountains which he is now selling even as low as 50 per cent below the price charged for the same class of fountains in the East. This fountain is well worthy of the examination of all interior dealers now in the city The doctor is certainly entitled to much credit for his excellent display at the Exposition, and it will undoubtedly redound greatly to his advantage.

OLDS & SUMMERS.

It is frequently commented on from all sides by all who have had the pleasure of a personal inspection of the magnificent display made by Olds & Summers the leading crockery dealers at the fair, and these include every visitor to the exposition, that this exhibit was by far the most attractive and showy in the building This firm is entitled to great credit in taking the initiative in bringing to Portland a better class of goods in their line than were ever before shown in this city, and it is a spirit of enterprise that will rebound greatly to their credit. This firm showed at the fair a full line of the famous Rochester lamps which for brilliancy of light, together with steady flame and perfect safety in handling, has no equal to day in the world. Their display in china was all of their own direct importation of Haviland china the reputation of which stands so high to day that the name "Haviland" on any piece of china is a sufficient guarantee of its merit Olds & Summers in plated ware make a specialty of Rogers Bros' goods which have successfully withstood the test of generations The elegant carving and game set shown in their display was of the Green River works of John Russell & Co goods of half a century's standing and the most popular in the market, Olds & Summers carry at all times the highest grades of goods in their line to be found on the coast and they are well worthy of the patronage of the people of the Northwest

THEY ADMIRED THEM

Something at the fair that called for the admiration of all visitors were the two crayons displayed by Watson, one of the leading photographers of the city One of these crayons, as has been previously mentioned in these columns portrayed the type of the man who forced his way into this far distant country in 49 and the other shows his brother forty years later entering the same country, but how changed in the luxurious Pullman. These have been of particular interest to pioneers who have visited the fair and they have doubtless brought vividly to their minds recollections of by gone days when they were inured to hardships and privations themselves Watson, whose gallery is located at 225 First street, is one of the few photographers on the coast who really does nothing but first class work at low prices He makes the best photographs as low as the lowest photographer in the city and in no instance has he ever lowered the standard of his work to meet competition He is able at the present time to show in his gallery the finest collection of photographs to be seen anywhere in the city, the largest galleries included and his place is well worthy of a visit from every stranger who ever pays Portland a visit

THE SMITH PREMIER

It has been a matter of the greatest surprise to the people of this city to note the comparatively short time that it has taken Mr Howard M Peirce to introduce the Smith Premier type writer in this field It is now barely one month since Mr Peirce received his first shipment of these machines and has them to day in many of the largest houses and offices in Portland, as well as in the leading business college of the city As attesting the merit of this machine, which stands to-day without an equal in the world for simplicity of motion and construction and for perfect and rapid work the reader need only be referred to last Sunday's issue of THE OREGONIAN in which two testimonials of the Smith Premier from the two leading business colleges of the Northwest located in this city were given to the public Mr Peirce has [illegible] Ash street to [illegible] from nearly every practical type writer in the city on the merits of this new machine and [illegible] here that it is worthy of the inspection of every business and professional man in the Northwest

BOSTON BAKED BEANS AND BROWN BREAD

It has only been within the past few weeks that the genuine Boston baked beans and brown bread could be obtained in this city Skiles & Wood two enterprising gentlemen from the East have just put in a large oven, in connection with their large Saratoga chip factory in this city for the baking of this delicious dish and they are now regularly supplying a great number of customers in all parts of Portland East Portland and Albina with the genuine Boston article The beans baked by this firm are not excelled in even Boston while their brown bread is on a par with the Eastern article itself In connection with the above product which they are now shipping to all parts of the Northwest in hermetically sealed jars, they are successfully conducting in this city the only Saratoga chip factory west of the Mississippi river These chips are now shipped in large quantities all over the coast, and they are highly spoken of wherever they have been introduced They enjoy a particularly large sale in this city and are a most popular article of food

FINE STOVES AND FURNISHINGS.

While there are many fine residences in Portland and rich people to fill them, it has been a matter of the greatest surprise to all visitors who have noted the magnificent display of stoves, brass goods and stove furnishings of all kinds made by Dekum Bros the leading stove dealers in the city, with headquarters at Nos 107 to 111 Second street and 45 Washington that there should exist the demand in this city that would justify any firm in laying in the supply of fine goods that this enterprising firm has shown at the fair It can be said here, however, that while Dekum Bros. carry the standard lines which are within the reach of even the most humble of their customers, they have all along showed a desire to cater to the best class of trade and with this end in view they early secured the agency in this city for the best class of Eastern goods in their line. They are the only ones in the city who carry a full line of the famous Superior stoves and ranges, the best in the market and it is their boast that they carry no trashy goods whatever

WM DUNBAR.

The pyramid of flour shown in the Exposition by the Oregon Milling Co, of Silverton Or, the product of which is handled by Wm Dunbar, the well known commission merchant of this city, is the finest display of flour ever before made on the coast This has been the means of calling special attention not only to the superior excellency of this particular brand of flour, but also to Mr Dunbar himself who is not only a leading merchant of this city but also one of the large manufacturers of flour in the Northwest. It may be advisable for country merchants particularly who are now visiting Portland to call on Mr Dunbar at his place of business 87 and 89 Front street and make arrangements for handling their country produce that will be alike advantageous to the country merchant and Mr Dunbar This gentleman has advantages for disposing of all kinds of country produce not possessed by any other commission merchant in the city, and he can offer special inducements to all interior shippers

G P RUMMELIN & SONS.

It was the draping of this stand at the fair that was particularly striking and pleasing to all visitors This firm made a display of rich furs and dressed skins at the exposition this year that as everybody said who saw it has never before been excelled in the United States It included everything in the fur line, together with a display of dressed skins of their own manufacture that would be entitled to awards in any of the largest expositions of the world There is nothing in the line of the dressing and handling of furs and skins of all kinds with the possible exception of dying the seal, that G P Rummelin & Sons are not prepared to do The senior member is conceded to be to day one of the best judges of furs in the United States, and they yearly ship large quantities of furs and skins to the large Eastern markets Their establishment at 82 First is the largest on the Coast and should be seen by every one visiting the city

DENTAL DISPLAY

The dental display made by Dr F W. Prehn with office in Union block at the Exposition has been the means of calling the attention of visitors especially from the East, to the fact that Portland can to-day boast of the skill in dentistry that is not exceeded by even any of the best dentists of the United States It has been the constant aim of Dr Prehn to keep constantly abreast of the times, and his exhibit of his own work at the fair has established him as the leading dentist of the city It is exceedingly doubtful if any other dentist in the city at the present time could possibly make the display of fine gold mountings gold and rubber plates, gold crowns and the best class of fillings that Dr Prehn has shown at the fair, and it is certain that no similar display in previous years at any exposition on the coast has approached this particular one in either completeness or in the excellency of work shown

GENTS FINE FURNISHINGS.

There is no firm in the Northwest at the present time that carries a line of gents' furnishings that approaches in quality that carried by Buffum & Pendleton of this city This firm located at No 153 First street is just in receipt of some of the latest novelties and richest goods in gents' underwear ever before opened on the coast They call particular attention to their very fine line of neckwear and their famous Knox hat It can be taken for granted that almost every well dressed man that one meets on the streets of Portland is a regular patron of this house

A CORRECTION

As there is an impression among the ladies that Bernard's decorative art display in the gallery was in the contest for prizes in the ladies' department of fancy work, I wish to state in justice to Mrs Bernard and her beautiful display that her exhibit was entered simply to advertise her business as a leader in the manufacture of fine work and not for prize competition in the ladies department

E W ALLEN Supt of Exhibits

THE PRIZE PORTRAIT

The Advance Portrait House, whose place of business is No 43½ First street offered a prize of a life size portrait and frame to the lady whose name should be the first one drawn on the last day of the exposition as advertised Miss Emma Eckhorn of East Portland is the winner holding ticket 2137 She will please call at our place of business and receive her prize

FAIR NOTES

At the head of the stairway in the east wing of the Exposition building has stood since the opening of the fair the magnificent exhibit of B B Douglas the leading taxidermist of the Northwest, located in this city Mr Douglas who is a practical taxidermist of many years' standing, certainly made this year at the fair the finest exhibit of stuffed birds animals and mountings ever before shown at any industrial fair in the Northwest. There is a skill in the preparation of goods in his line that is possessed by but few taxidermists in the United States The secret is to get the life like attitude and pose, and not the appearance of being "stuffed," so often noticeable in heads particularly Mr Douglas is an adept in his line, and all his specimens show the evidence of skill in this direction

There has never been a better display of stoves, ranges and heaters made at an exposition on the coast than that made by Messrs Chown & Curtis of this city at the fair this year This firm located at Nos 212 First street and 9 Salmon can show one of the most complete lines of stoves, ranges heaters and hardware of all kinds (their line of builders' hardware being especially worthy of mention) to be found in the Northwest They make a specialty of all the late novelties in their line and in no case do they carry antiquated goods on their shelves In the line of small hardware of all kinds the stock of Chown & Curtis is not surpassed on the coast and their claims are certainly worthy of the attention of all patrons of these goods

There is perhaps no firm in the city whose exhibit has been more missed at the fair this year than The Kohler & Chase Music House located at No 71 Morrison street. This firm are the sole agents in the Northwest for the matchless Decker Brother's piano the finest instrument sold in this market and it is an instrument that for parlor use is not excelled in the world In addition to the Decker Brothers they handle the famous Mason & Hamlin organ, the peer of all organs, and many of the best makes of pianos and the most expensive [illegible] organs in the market Their stock is the most complete in the Northwest and their store is worthy of a visit

The Northwestern agency located at the corner of J and Water streets in East Portland are general dealers in farm machinery of all kinds and in the best makes of buggies wagons and carriages Several full descriptions of the lines they carry constantly in stock have already appeared in these columns and any further mention of these particular lines would be an unnecessary repetition of what has already been fully told All persons, however who have any dealings whatever on the East Side should by all means inspect the very full and complete stock of goods carried by this firm which included the very highest grades in the market

The first installment house of any dimensions started in this city was that of Forbes & Wheeler, of which Mr C M Forbes is the immediate successor Mr Forbes is to-day one of the leading dealers in the Northwest in household furniture of all kinds, and he is doing the largest installment business in Portland at the present time He sells on easy terms, but a particular feature of his business that he sells his goods in all cases as low as are sold elsewhere for cash prices His stock includes the best line of furniture carried by any firm in Portland, and it is well worthy of the inspection of every one in the city

A very valuable exhibit in a small space is a violin and a viola made by Mr W R McCord, of East Portland These instruments were made for Otto Kleeman, the well known architect and are the only ones of their kind on the coast They were made after special designs, and show such excellent workmanship that Mr Musin the celebrated artist, exclaimed that he did not think it possible that such work could be done on this coast The head scrolls are elaborately carved and the purfling of one of the instruments consists of 1200 pieces They are made of Oregon maple and silver fir and the sound is excellent

It was directly due to rush of business and nothing else that the Singer Sewing Machine Company, of this city was unable to make a showing at the fair the present year Their large salesrooms at No 94 Morrison street have been visited by hundreds since the first opening of the fair, and all these visitors have departed pleased with their personal inspection here The singer is to-day the leader of all sewing machines in the world and it is the popular machine all over the United States The sales have greatly increased in the Northwest during the past year and it is now the one mainly purchased in this field

Povey Bros of this city made the only exhibit of art glass decorative work at the Fair the present year This firm is now doing a business that reaches to all parts of the Pacific Northwest as well as to California, and their work is of as high an order as that of any of the largest Eastern manufacturers of art and stained glass decorations They are now at work on the largest contract in decorative glass work ever let on the coast that of the big hotel in this city, and their work can to day be seen in nearly all of the finest buildings in the Northwest

The large plant of J C Carson located in the north end of the city is at the present being run to the fullest capacity to supply the demands for doors sash and mouldings of all kinds It has always been Mr Carson's main effort to keep abreast of the times in his business, but even with the largest mill of the kind in the Northwest he is constantly crowded with work His product now stands the highest of any similar finished lumber in the Northwest

Mr H B Chase, at No 136 Sixth street, sole agent for the famous original Richardson & Boynton Co's furnaces, has just finished his contract for putting one of these furnaces into the new Grace M E church of this city, and the gentleman is now at work in placing one of the largest furnaces of this make ever before sold in the Northwest in the elegant new building of the Presbyterian church This is the best heating furnace sold to-day

There was nothing of more interest in the entire Exposition building last evening than the baby show in the stand of Davies, the well known photographer, located at the corner of First and Taylor streets This consisted of an excellent grouping of little one's photos that has certainly never before been excelled on the coast. Davies is to-day the leading photographer of the Northwest, and all of his work is of the highest quality

Baum & Brandes the leading confectioners and caterers of the city, finished their labors at the Exposition last night They may be found by visitors to day, however and in the future at their place of business, at 145 First street They conduct the leading confectionery establishment of the Northwest, and their dining parlors are the most centrally located and best appointed in the city

The cottage of the Cleveland Oil & Paint Manufacturing Company at the fair was the cutest thing in the exposition building Lighted by electricity and furnished throughout it was admired by thousands, and well advertised their famous ready mixed paints

All visitors before returning home, should not fail to visit the large jewelry establishment of Herkemper at 151 Third street.

J J Kadderly's exhibit of fine stoves should have been awarded the first prize.

FURNITURE MAKING

A Visit to the Largest Furniture Factory in the Northwest A Great Industry

The largest of the four furniture factories now located in Portland is that of Mr I F Powers situated on the west bank of the Willamette at a point two miles south of the city Mr Powers is to day one of the oldest furniture dealers in the city Starting in business here in 1876 he is at the present writing at the head of one of the largest furniture houses on the coast He employs in his store and factory at all seasons of the year about eighty five men and he is now doing a business that reaches to all parts of the Northwest. His salesrooms in this city located at Nos 188 190 First street, occupy a ground floor space of 40x200 feet and the building which he occupies here from cellar to garret is three stories high and is one of the finest brick edifices in the city His factory, together with the grounds, covers a space of 3½ acres and it is one of the largest and most complete of the kind on the coast. Opened a year ago last July it is now running to its fullest capacity From the sawmill to the finishing room everything has been arranged here after Mr Powers's own idea The sawmill, located on the banks of the Willamette river, accessible to either the small river craft or the largest ocean steamers, is 50x100 feet in size and has a cutting capacity of 20 000 feet of lumber per day In a little more than a year since it was first opened Mr Powers has sawed upwards of 400 000 feet of logs at this mill. He keeps a force of twelve men in this mill which is run almost continuously Adjoining the sawmill is a large dryhouse, 20x40 feet in size with a storage capacity of 20,000 feet of lumber This house is heated by steam furnished by a boiler of 240 horse-power capacity No lumber is ever allowed by Mr. Powers to pass into his factory proper until it has been thoroughly dried and seasoned, and no furniture sold by this dealer has ever been known to warp or crack All lumber placed in this dry house is allowed to stand for at least a week, and the drying is accomplished at a temperature that does not allow the warping or splitting of the boards From the dryhouse the lumber is either passed to the planing mill or stored in sheds in the adjoining yards until such time as it becomes necessary to use it. In this yard at the present time Mr Powers has stored upwards of 100,000 feet of lumber fully seasoned and ready for the hands of the furniture maker. The planing mill and machine shop combined is one of the most complete parts of the establishment. This building is 60x200 feet in size and contains all the latest and most improved machinery for the making of furniture Forty men are constantly employed in this department and from the time that a board first passes into the room it does not stop until it is ready for the "set-up" room adjoining In the machine shop the lumber is first planed after which it is passed to the "cut-off" saw which saws it into the lengths desired From the "cut-off" saws it is passed to the grooving and boring machines and finally to the finishing hands. Specially worthy of mention in this department is the sandpaper machine which gives a finish to this lumber in an incredibly short space of time From the machine shop the lumber grooved and finished is passed to the 'set up' room where the furniture is put together This building is 40x80 feet in size and in this department fourteen men are employed This is one of the most interesting rooms in the establishment Each man is alloted to different parts of the work and when the work here is finished the furniture only requires the touch of the painter's brush and the polisher to be ready to put on exhibition at the salesrooms The paint shop adjoining is also 40x80 feet in dimensions, and gives constant work to eight men Here the furniture is painted oiled and varnished and polished. Immediately west of the paint room are two large storerooms, each 40x80 feet and devoted exclusively to the storing of furniture The one next to the track of the Portland & Willamette Valley railroad is used altogether for the storing of Eastern-made goods, while the one immediately adjoining the paint shop is devoted to home-made furniture In the latter room are shown some bedroom sets that would grace the rooms of some of the finest residences of the country and an inspection of this room will tend to entirely dispel the illusion that first class furniture can only be made successfully in Eastern factories.

THE ALPINE CLUB'S EXHIBIT

A Very Excellent and Interesting Collection at the Exposition

Though the great Industrial Fair in Portland is closed, it is not too late to mention the splendid collection which was displayed by the Oregon Alpine Club. This display, which was most interesting and curious, was one of the attractive features at the Exposition and never failed to draw crowds both day and night.

The exhibit consisted of specimens taken from the club's collection in different branches of natural history contained in their museum Moving specimens being injurious to most of them, only those that suffer least from handling are shown in the exhibit.

The sciences represented are ornithology, conchology mineralogy and archeology.

Ornithology—The birds represented here are all natives of this state and are mostly well known one or two being rare, namely, the American raven corvus colax and the avocet recurvirostra avocetta. The birds are collected by Mr B. J Bretherton, formerly collecting naturalist present curator of the club

Mineralogy—Nearly all the precious stones of the world are present here, including many beautiful agates and composites They were collected by Frank J Parker, of Walla Walla

Conchology—The shells present represent the marine and the fresh water species most of the marine being from the gulf of California and include many beautiful species The marine shells are collected by Mr H E Dore, conchologist of the club, and the land and fresh water shells by Mr J H Hageny, entomologist of the club

Archæology—Include many valuable relics and remains, notably a petrified gun stock found in an Indian grave a relic of the Hudson Bay Company, being one of the first guns ever brought to the coast also the lower jaw of an extinct mammal, supposed to be the Entelodon "

This will be the last exhibit of the kind made by the club, on account of the injurious effects to specimens but the museum of the club will soon be open to the public

The club is now undergoing a reorganization which will include a photographic, museum game protective and exploration sections Negotiations are also on foot to have a building erected for the club which will contain a museum and a reading and lecture room, also a well equipped photographic laboratory

Cider Recommended For Women.

Cider is strongly recommended as a drink for women. It is slightly alcoholic quite stimulating, and the acids in it render it very beneficial to the action of the liver In this respect it possesses great advantages over all malt preparations which invariably have a bilious and bloating tendency Cider-cup makes a really pleasant dinner drink and an excellent substitute for the light sour wines so much used at table in foreign countries

NOTES FROM THE EAST SIDE.

Several Bunko Steerers Who Made a Good Haul and Got Away.

Interesting Meetings—An Agreeable Surprise—A Good Start Made—Couldn't Catch a Train—Pulpit Supply—Other Items.

For some time past it has been known that several bunko men have been making the old Holladay hotel building on Holladay avenue the scene of their operations and steering men over from Portland by way of the railroad bridge into this building where they were robbed. The men engaged in the business are the same parties who won $30 from Zimmerman and have been operating in the old hotel until Friday. Marshal Morgan made up his mind that he would stop the business. So he secreted two men in the building. Some how the bunko men got wind of the marshal's movements, and concluded they had remained as long as it was healthy for them, and so left for San Francisco overland Friday. Morgan says he saw them on the train. He thinks they must have cleaned up several thousand dollars from the suckers who were enticed over from Portland.

A GOOD STARTER.

A prominent member of Centenary M. E. church made the statement yesterday that an effort would be made to take preliminary steps for the erection of a new church within the next year. A well-known member has practically agreed to contribute $25,000 to the building, which is a good starter and should enable this society to put up a building costing $50,000. There are members of Centenary M. E. church who remember when the present building was in the midst of trees, but who will doubtless soon see a splendid edifice erected on the site of the old church.

CHASING A CAR.

It does not occur to the minds of some people that it will not pay to chase after a railroad car. Yesterday evening two young ladies wanted to take the car for Vancouver. They came down J street, intending to get on board at Third street, but they were a block away when the cars rounded this point. They determined to overtake the train, and they gave chase for about two blocks before they found out they could not make it. The engineer then waved a polite farewell to them as he disappeared around the corner seven blocks off.

MEN'S MEETING.

The meetings held at the Young Men's Christian Association every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, are increasing in attendance and interest, because they are short, only lasting forty-five minutes. A third of the time is spent in song service, and there are hymn-books for all. The rooms are growing more attractive and comfortable. The speakers are good and brief, and all are cordially welcomed. Mr. W. E. Bishop will address the men to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

SPELLING MATCH.

In the Holladay schools the pupils have an old-fashioned spelling match every Friday afternoon. Lists are given out to each grade a week in advance, and those standing the longest are entitled to wear a badge during the following week. The following were not spelled down: Charles Scott, Kulla McFadden, Percy Morse, Anna LaSalle, Etta Floyd, Lillian Wells, Jennie Floyd, Carrie Ackerman, Anna Cass, Joe Berry, Henry Zander and Lillian Moss.

WANTED HIS PICTURE TAKEN.

"Joe, the Turk," in the city jail, sent a request to the recorder for permission to have his picture taken, with the jail as the background. The request was not granted at present but just before he takes his departure his vanity may be gratified. Some people would prefer not to have a city jail as a background to their pictures, but there is great dissimilarity in the tastes of human beings.

A SURPRISE.

F. Cozens, who lives on Sixteenth street, was greatly surprised last night by receiving a call from a number of his friends, who proceeded to present him with a beautiful secretary. Mr. Cozens recently purchased a ranch in the country, and will shortly move out of town with his family. His friends gave him something to remember them by.

MORE COPIES WANTED.

The city recorder is receiving constantly requests for copies of the ordinance forbidding the playing of bands on the streets of East Portland. Other municipalities desire to legislate on the same subject with a view to suppressing the Salvation Army music. They will have to abolish all brass bands.

PULPIT SUPPLY.

Rev. Clay Hill, of Eugene, is in the city, and will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church to-day morning and evening. It is not known whether or not any arrangements have been made to secure a regular pastor.

NEW RESIDENCE.

Mr. Elmer Wheeler, of Pendleton, has purchased a residence site at Mount Tabor, and will shortly commence the erection of a dwelling thereon.

A LITTLE MORE CASH WANTED.

The committee need a little more cash to pay for the harness purchased for the horses for the fire department. It should be forthcoming.

ARRIVED FROM THE EAST.

Mrs. W. H. Meade arrived home yesterday from Boston. She has been East since April, and is glad to get back to Oregon.

NOTES.

Just received, a large assortment of first-class pianos, in rosewood, ash, oak, walnut, cherry and mahogany. Get first-class choice at Tom Parrott's.

IT IS STILL SELLING.

The Best Selling Property To-Day.

There have been two forty-acre tracts of Port Townsend land sold to Portland parties since Wednesday evening up to noon of Saturday. This, together with other acre property, will aggregate over 200 acres of this property bought in Portland in the past ten or twelve days. The total sales of real estate in Port Townsend in the past two weeks exceeds two and one-half million dollars, an Oregon man bought fifty thousand of this. These sales are greater than Seattle, Tacoma and Bellingham bay towns combined in the same time. This statement is not an idle one, but is the actual truth susceptible of proof any moment. With the Union Pacific to commence building right away from Townsend around the head of Hood's canal to Portland, with the Lake Shore & Eastern, together with Northern Pacific, having surveyed lines to Whidby islands opposite Port Townsend, there is certainly good grounds for the faith shown in the prosperity of the flourishing young city. No one can name a leading point where one transcontinental line has gone, that other through lines do not seek to reach. The leading cities in Washington prove this statement.

It is the hope of profit that prompts these ready sales, and this profit is more certain than was ever offered at Tacoma or Seattle when having but 7000 inhabitants. Port Townsend is the next fast growing and certain city in the Northwest, and all signs point to this.

THE CITY OF JERUSALEM.

There is no attraction in the city at the present time that is claiming more attention from the people than the exhibition of the "City of Jerusalem" now open for the public at the corner of Third and Washington streets in this city. This, as Mr. Cook the genial proprietor says, is no side show or dime catch penny scheme, but a marvelous piece of mechanism that has already challenged the attention and admiration of the world. It should be seen by every man, woman and child in the city and is well worthy of the hearty support of the Portland public.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

WHEREAS, Divine Providence has removed from our midst Mr. Gerald Robertson. Be it therefore Resolved, By the Insurance Fraternity of Portland, that we hereby express the irreparable loss which this community has sustained by the sudden death of our esteemed co-worker. We shall ever hold in affectionate remembrance his many rare qualities of mind and heart, his unselfish and courteous disposition, his kind and genial nature, his unswerving honesty, his devoted faithfulness to his employer.

Charity and open-heartedness were his chief characteristics. He was always ready to help the afflicted, making their troubles his own.

No one was more popular than our departed brother, and his death has made a blank which, we feel, can never be filled.

We hereby express our profound sympathy with his sorrowing relatives, and to Mr. G. L. Story, and order that these resolutions be published.

THE FUGITIVE MURDERER.

Dispatches Regarding Suspicious Looking Characters, Supposed To Be Gibbs, Received Every Day.

"There is still nothing new in the search for Gibbs," said Chief of Police Parrish yesterday. "We are receiving on an average twenty dispatches a day from all sections of the state, but none of them throw any light on the whereabouts of the real Gibbs. People see a suspicious looking character here and another there, and they at once jump to the conclusion that the man is the fugitive murderer. Some people appear to have a fascination in spreading sensational rumors, but, as we receive so many made out of whole cloth, we pay little attention to them, and place much less reliance on them. The whereabout of Gibbs is still unknown, of course, but we have our men looking for him as diligently as ever. It would be no suprise to us if we should hear something authentic regarding him in a few days."

THE HALLET & DAVIS.

The High Standing This Piano Has Attained in the United States.

It is a matter of comment with pianists all over the United States just how the Hallet & Davis piano has attained the prominence with the musical people during the past few years that it enjoys to-day. This is explained in the greatest improvement of the age, the "Agraffe Bridge" that is now used in the construction of all these instruments, and in the great care that has been taken recently by the manufacturers in their selection and drying of all woods used in the construction of the Hallet & Davis. The Chicago Music House, at 251 First street, has just received a large shipment of these standard instruments, which they are selling on the most reasonable terms.

MERITED SUCCESS.

One of the finest real estate offices in Portland is that of Hughes, Brown & Co., No. 30 Ash street. These gentlemen have enlarged their office, making a suite of rooms 80 feet in length by 10 to 12 in width, and furnished the entire suite with fine carpets, new and elegant furniture, gas jets, etc.

Hughes, Brown & Co., started out with the watchword, "Reliable:" every transaction has been characterized by fair and honest dealing, so that they have already gained, as they merit, success, and the confidence of the public.

They are handling extensively Port Townsend property in Washington and Mount Tabor suburban property, Or., and it is fair to infer that all who deal with these gentlemen will be dealt with promptly, fairly and satisfactorily.

WHERE TO DINE TO-DAY.

The cafe of Freimann's, located in this city, is the most famous on the coast. His Sunday dinners are unsurpassed the world over. Dine there to-day, and enjoy an excellent meal.

The U. S. restaurant, at 29 Morrison, makes a specialty of fine Sunday dinners. Dine there to-day from 11 A. M. to 7 P. M. Charges moderate.

Zinsley, 230 First, prides himself on his hot cakes, coffee and chocolate at all hours of the day or night. Try his Sunday dinner.

TO-DAY'S SPORT.

Providing the weather is favorable this afternoon, a grand racing tournament and balloon ascension will take place at Clinton & McCoy's baseball grounds. Among the features will be a ten-mile foot race between W. B. Faulkner of this city, and J. S. Clark, of Astoria, for a purse of $100; a one-mile bicycle race, open to all, for a purse of $20; a wrestling match between Faulkner and L. H. Mason for $50, and various other specialties. After the tournament Professor P. H. Redmond will make an ascension with his new balloon.

CROWDS GO TO "JERUSALEM."

The wonderful mechanical work known as the City of Jerusalem before the day of crucifixion, now on exhibition at corner of Third and Washington, opened to the public last night, and the pavilion was crowded early and late with a throng of delighted visitors. It is without doubt one of the most chaste and beautiful exhibitions ever seen in this country, and is bound to make a big success in this city. Take your families and see Jerusalem.

BORN.

In this city, October 23, to the wife of Ross Sharp, a daughter. Mother and child doing nicely.

Ross, next time you do dat and don't send us de cigars or say take somethings when we pass we will shust tell everybody we see, and send de rest around as soon as dey come home. You can look for all de boys around to-morrow so have your best box ready.

STONE, THE CANDY MAN

At the request of my many friends and customers I have again gone into the candy business. My stand opposite THE OREGONIAN is the only place in the city where my goods can be obtained. S. L. STONE.

CHIEF HEATION.

Cut out Miss Churchill's special notice. Yourself and friends will want it for reference.

S. Tomlinson has a lot of fine horses for sale at Magoon Bros.', corner Third and Madison.

The fair has demonstrated one thing, and that is that the Weber is the leader of all pianos in the market. It is kept only by Ho[illegible] & Co., 167 First street, of this city.

Do not buy a cheap piano when you can get the very best for the same money. H. Sinsheimer, the well-known music dealer at 214 First street, has just received an immense shipment of the famous Steinway & Son's and Chickering & Son's pianos—the best instruments in the world. He also carries the only high-grade organ—the Burdett. He is the only Portland music dealer who buys direct from the factories for cash only.

As our city grows the ground becomes more valuable, and it is advisable to shorten the frontage of buildings as much as possible, and the architect's ingenuity is taxed to the utmost to economize every inch of space. A building wherein the designer has succeeded admirably is the dwelling house now about completed on only nineteen feet frontage on B street, for Mr. John Klosterman, and rented to Mr. Oppenheimer. The front is a gem of modern architecture, and the plan meets all modern requirements. The plans for the building were made by Architect Otto Kleeman. The cost exceeds $9000 by only a small sum.

VISITORS ATTENTION!

An elegant breakfast at Freimann's; a magnificent lunch at Freimann's; a dinner and a supper at Freimann's cafe that would be a credit to Delmonico's of New York. Remember that Freimann is the best and most expensive caterer on the coast. He has the finest restaurant west of Chicago.

THE DISTRIBUTION.

A Large Crowd in Attendance Yesterday.

THE PRIZES WERE ALL AWARDED

Much Interest Manifested—Prominent Business Men Conduct the Drawing—List of the Lucky Ticket Holders.

Yesterday about 10 o'clock an unusual throng was noticed in front of the New Market block, the headquarters of Staver & Walker, largest dealers in machinery and vehicles on the Pacific coast.

The occasion of this great gathering was the distribution by them of the thirty-six prizes they awarded to the parties who had procured tickets for the drawing by visiting the splendid displays of machinery and vehicles made by Staver & Walker at the Industrial exposition. Promptly at 10 o'clock the judges of the drawing—Mr. A. H. Johnson, wholesale and retail dealer in meats; Mr. Jacob Mayer, of Messrs. Fleischner, Mayer & Co., wholesale dry goods merchants; and Mr. Alfred Goodnough, the architect—all well-known business men of this city—were selected by the ticket-holders. The person selected to draw the numbers from the churn was Master Lawrence Selling, the handsome and manly little son of Mr. Ben Selling, of the firm of Akin, Selling & Co., wholesale dealers in boots and shoes. This little gentleman played the character of Blindfold Fortune in a most willing manner, displaying perfect self-possession in his role.

All preliminaries being arranged, duplicate numbers for all tickets issued were placed in a churn, the churn then rapidly revolved several times so as to thoroughly shake up all the numbers, after which Master Lawrence Selling was blindfolded by Mr. Johnson, and the churn being uncovered he thrust his hand therein and drew forth the first lucky number, which proved to be ticket No. 4635, held by Mrs. Joel Ware, of Eugene City, Oregon, who was, therefore, entitled to the first prize—a fine Studebaker road cart.

As the numbers were drawn by Master Selling they were handed to Mr. Mayer, who called the number drawn and then handed it to Mr. Goodnough, who wrote the number of the prize on the back of the ticket, after which the number drawn and name and the residence of the ticket-holder as taken from the register, and the prize drawn, were recorded in a book.

The following is a complete list of the lucky numbers, the holders of same and the number of the prize drawn:

No. 4635, Mrs. J. Ware, Eugene City, Or., prize No. 1; No. 2791, M. R. Lynch, Etna, Wn., prize No. 2; No. 3505, W. H. Moser, East Portland, prize No. 3; No. 3867, Miss Kate Dunlap, city, prize No. 4; No. 10,512, G. M. Stearns, city, prize No. 5; No. 6797, C. H. Lombard, city, prize No. 6; No. 4620, M. C. Bainfield, city, prize No. 7; No. 12,615, J. G. Emmick, city, prize No. 8; No. 14,312, A. Halquist, city, prize No. 9; No. 6961, R. M. Johnson, Lone Rock, Or., prize No. 10; No. 12,658, Mrs. H. M. Peterson, city, prize No. 11; No. 1036, Canse & Chapman, Colfax, Wn., prize No. 12; No. 3291, Mrs. J. C. Shepard, city, prize No. 13; No. 5251, Mrs. M. A. Darcy, city, prize No. 14; No. 13,810, Mrs. M. A. Burke, city, prize No. 15; No. 12,783, Mrs. E. A. Brown, city, prize No. 16; No. 10,034, D. F. Riegle, city, prize No. 17; No. 192, J. Guire, city, prize No. 18; No. 1975, Mrs. Byron, Tualitin, Oregon, prize No. 19; No. 5236, Miss E. Jones, city, prize No. 20; No. 8176, Frank Walker, city, prize No. 21; No. 4186, Ira Morgan, city, prize No. 22; No. 6725, S. G. Morey, city, prize No. 23; No. 1425, G. M. Strims, city, prize No. 24; No. 13,236, Miss E. Schurz, city, prize No. 25; No. 15,555, I. G. Nicklin, city, prize No. 26; No. 4761, Mrs. J. T. Corbett, city, prize No. 27; No. 14373, Miss Lulu Hawthorn, East Portland, prize No. 28; No. 12,645, Miss Daisy Biles, city, prize No. 29; No. 2228, G. L. Jennings, city, prize No. 30; No. 11,351, Mrs. A. Van Fridagh, city, prize No. 31; No. 5762, H. Wilhard, city, prize No. 32; No. 14,051, R. B. Curry, city, prize No. 33; No. 15,724, C. N. Graves, McMinnville, Or., prize No. 34; No. 13,899, H. Henderson, McMinnville, Or., prize No. 35; No. 11,857, Miss Bettie Sanders, city, prize No. 36. Reference to the ticket will show what prize each received.

Much enthusiasm was manifested by the large audience at the drawing, and each time, as a familiar name was called, there was considerable applause from those present. All parties holding winning numbers will be delivered the goods on presentation of the tickets at the office of Staver & Walker at any time.

In view of the great list of prizes, and the great variety of the same, Staver & Walker, with their accustomed liberality, have decided that any person holding a winning number, who would prefer some other article to the one drawn by them, may have the privilege of exchanging the same for any other article from the stock of Staver & Walker of like value, so that all lucky ticket holders ought to be able to please themselves with what fortune has awarded them.

This has been one of the most successful gift enterprises ever conducted in the Northwest, and speaks volumes for the energy and business sagacity of Staver & Walker, the great machinery and vehicle dealers of the Pacific coast, in whose stock will be found every description of machinery and vehicle.

Closing Out Sale

OF

STOVES

Our trade in Furniture has grown to such immense proportions that we are compelled to close out our Stove Department for lack of floor room. We will, therefore, make such sweeping reductions in prices that every one needing a stove, whether for Parlor or Kitchen, will do well to look through our stock, as all will

BE SOLD AT LESS THAN COST.

The Stoves are all guaranteed, being manufactured by Cribben, Sexton & Co., Chicago. Come down while the picnic lasts.

WONDERFUL REDUCTIONS!
SURPRISING BARGAINS!
UNEQUALLED ATTRACTIONS!

Owing to the great success of our seasonable sale during the past week and feeling that we were not able to do justice to our many callers, we have decided to extend this sale one week longer, and in addition to the many bargains already offered we have marked down some of our choicest goods so as to include them in the list of wonderful attractions, and feel warranted in asserting that our entire stock of goods will be offered this week at nearer actual cost than has ever been in Portland since it existed.

NOTICE

We call special attention to the following great mark-down sale in Fine Goods, and any person thinking of purchasing really Choice Goods will find this an opportunity rarely, if ever, duplicated.

We Carry a Full Line of Furniture

Of every description; can sell you Ash Chamber Suits for $10 and Bedsteads as low as $2, being thereby enabled to suit all classes, rich and poor. If you want a square deal come and see us; we are glad to make you prices whether we sell you goods or not.

WE DO NOT

Ship trainloads of shoddy goods from the East; we are satisfied to bring them one car at a time and good. Our Chamber Suits are made by McCord & Bradfield and Nelson, Mather & Co. of Grand Rapids. We do not import San Bygan goods as they are decidedly inferior to Oregon manufacture, and when cheap goods are wanted we furnish the product of the home market. Our goods must be seen to be appreciated, and we invite every one to call and look through our immense stock. They will at least receive gentlemanly attention and some useful information for their pains.
